RUSH ARMY TO MEXICO

MAJOR-GENERAL FUNSTON.

Large Force Will Cross the Border at Once; Volunteers Will Be Called if Necessary

Washington, March 10.—The United States has intervened in Mexico. President Wilson this afternoon ordered General Francisco Villa captured or killed at any cost. He ordered the army to undertake the task.

An expedition was immediately prepared. It will consist of cavalry supported by infantry. The first army will probably consist of 5,000 men. If necessary from 20,000 to 50,000 men will be ordered into the field.

The President's secretary this afternoon declared that Congress would not be consulted yet, but if necessary the President would ask for authority to raise a volunteer army. If the crisis leads to a general conflagration in Mexico, the fleet will be immediately ordered to co-operate with the army. A large naval force is now in southern waters prepared for action.

Villa and a large force of his troops are reported to have encamped last night seven miles south of the New Mexico border and twenty miles west of Columbus, after making several bloodless raids across the border. An unconfirmed report this afternoon stated that Villa forces were again moving on Columbus, the scene of yesterday's massacre.

RESOLVE ASKS FOR TROOPS

By International News Service.

Washington, March 10.—Senator McCumber of North Dakota introduced a resolution in the Senate today directing the President "to immediately send into Mexico a sufficient force to hunt down the murdering bands and punish all those guilty of atrocities against our citizens."

"The time has come to use grapeshot instead of grape juice," he declared.

GALLERIES APPLAUD.

The galleries broke the Senate rule against applause, and Senator Clarke, president pro tem, had to rap vigorously for order.

"For five months," said Ashurst, "I have been going to the State Department urging that the American troops be kept on the border. Only a few days ago I learned that the War Department was contemplating removing them to take part in manoeuvres with some of the militiamen.

"I am an American Senator and not a State Senator. I would feel just the same about this if it had occurred in New York, but I want to vote to direct the President to send an armed force into Mexico after the murderers. I want to see American soldiers get those red-handed cutthroats, bring them back to the little town of Columbus and have them publicly shot."

The resolution also would authorize the President to use any force necessary to carry into effect the purpose of the resolution or "to overcome any opposition from any source in Mexico to prevent its accomplishment."

The McCumber resolution caused a storm in the Mexican situation to break loose in the Senate. Senator Ashurst, Democrat, of Arizona, one of the President's strongest supporters, urged intervention.

GRAVE, SAYS STONE.

Senator Stone, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, urged the Senate to be patient a few hours. The Cabinet, he said, was considering the question and was in consultation with the military authorities.

He declared the situation to be extremely grave, and urged Senators to refrain from criticism until the administration could lay before the Senate full facts of the matter.

FUNSTON READY TO MOVE

By International News Service.

Washington, March 10.—Brigadier-General Pershing, commander of the Eighth Brigade, reported today that Villa forces had raided American territory at several points during the night, but that no loss of life was reported.

Major-General Funston, commanding the troops on the border, appealed today for permission to rush troops into Mexico to wipe out the bandits.

In reply, General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff, telegraphed to Funston asking him where he got his authority to allow the force which pursued Villa to enter Mexico yesterday.

General Funston replied at once to General Scott's telegram, stating that so far he is without official information of how the American forces came to go across the border. He said he had called upon Colonel Slocum for a full report, and as quickly as he got it

DECIDE THAT OUTRAGE MUST BE WIPED OUT.

This action was deided on at a two-hours' session of the Cabinet today. There was unanimity of opinion among the members present that there could be no further temporizing with the situation. Villa's action in murdering and outraging Americans at will had enraged Congress to such an extent that the President and his advisers decided that he must be removed as menace to the peace of the country. The following statement was issued by Secretary to the President Tumulty:

An adequate force will be sent at once in pursuit of Villa with the single object of capturing him and putting a stop to his forays. This can and will be done in entirely friendly aid of the constituted authorities in Mexico and, with scrupulous respect for the sovereignty of that republic.

Secretary of War Baker went directly from the Cabinet meeting to his office, where he directed General Scott to prepare the orders for the movement of the troops.

General Frederick Funston, commanding on the border has been designated as the commander-in-chief of the expedition. At the same time orders were telegraphed to all units of the regular army in the United States to be ready to move at a moment's notice. The quartermaster's corps was directed to arrange for transportation and the like. There is no intention as yet of using the National Guard. The Coast Artillery will be utilized as infantry if necessary. This will give 13,000 additional men for work on the border and in Old Mexico.

RUMOR CARRANZA HAS BEEN SLAIN.

President Wilson called Senator Stone, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, on the telephone and told him what had been done. Stone gave his unqualified approval of the step and agreed to father any legislation that may be necessary. At the same time Representative Flood, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, was sent for by Secretary Lansing to confer with him on the subject.

A rumor was given circulation about the capitol that information had been received here that General Carranza had been assassinated, and that this was one of the compelling reasons why orders had been issued to go after Villa at once.

Administration officials claimed that they had no such information, and it was impossible to locate the source of the rumor. Word that at least positive action had been decided on was sent immediately to the Capitol, and caused a sensation among Senators and Representatives.

It was accepted that the determination to intervene in behalf of carranza and to eliminate Villa once and for all would be a very popular one throughout the country.

Officials were very careful to emphasize that the expedition was intended in every way to uphold the hands of the Carranza government as recognized by the United States.

It was admitted that grave doubt existed, however, as to how the Mexicans would look upon the matter. The ill-feeling against the United States has constantly been growing throughout Mexico, and there were many officials and military experts who believed that the Carranzistas and Villistas would unite to oppose the United States troops.

Must Prepare for All Emergencies.

The men holding these views—and they include some of the leading statesmen here—insisted that they were convinced that the United States would have to pacify all Mexico and create a government there that could be upheld.

General Scott, who knows Villa and the Mexicans well, made no secret of his fears that the action of the United States might be misunderstood. He declared that no chances could be taken with the troops that are sent after Villa, but that they must be supported by artillery and infantry, so that if the worst comes to the worst they will be able to maintain their positions until an adequate force can be thrown into the field.

Although every effort was made to keep the matter secret, it was learned that both the Atlantic and Pacific fleets have been ordered to be ready for any contingency.

So long as there is no objection to this country pursuing and capturing Villa there will be no action by the fleets that could be construed as indicating a desire for service. But if there is any interference with the free action of the army by either the Carranzista government or any other Mexican factions ,the fleet will be used to blockade the Mexican coasts and to aid the army in every way.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels brought details to the cabinet

El Paso, Tex., March 10.—A telephone message from Columbus, N. The message stated that the inhabitants of Columbus were panicstricken and many were fleeing.

meeting of the whereabouts of the fleet. The bulk of the Atlantic fleet is at the Winter station at Guantanamo, where it can easily be hurried across the Mexican waters.

Secretary Tumulty, on behalf of the President, announced that the Executive would not go before Congress at the present time to ask any additional authority for the use of the army and navy.

He considers that he has ample authority under existing law for sending the punitive expedition against Villa.

"Should an emergency arise," Secretary Tumulty said, "that would make necessary further action by the President, he will go to Congress and lay the entire situation before it. He then will ask for authority to raise a volunteer army to supplement the efforts of the regular army in coping with the situation."

As an evidence of the state of preparedness which the army was in, it was learned that within fifteen minutes after Secretary of War Baker had communicated to General Scott that action was to be had, the quartermaster's corps was in communication with the heads of the various trunk line railroads of the country arranging for trains to move men and munitions as they were needed.

There was none of the excitement about the White House and the War Department that marked the days of the landing of Americans at Vera Cruz. Officers accepted the expedition as in the line of regular duty and hurried to take up the carrying out of a program that had long before been very carefully planned. Telegrams were sent out to officers absent on leave to report to their stations ready for action.

The army was glad that at last the leash was to be lifted and it would be given opportunity to resent the slurs and attacks that have been received from the Villistas and to revenge the bloodshed by the bandit leaders in Mexico.

"GET VILLA DEAD OR ALIVE," DEMAND OF ARMY ON BORDER

By International News Service.

El Paso, Tex., March 10.—Warning has been sent to every army camp and village along the border to signal the appearance of any suspicious bands. Mounted patrols are guarding the telegraph lines to prevent their being cut.

Colonel Slocum notified General Pershing that the first battalion of the twentieth infantry had reached Columbus and proceeded to Victoria, N. M., where the soldiers will be in a position to protect that town and also Hachita.

There is great activity at Fort Bliss. The officers there declined to talk, but the enlisted men were generally of the belief that American troops would be ordered into Mexico to hunt down Villa.

"We'll get Pancho Villa dead or alive," was the determined expression of the soldiers when asked whether any orders to prepare to move had been received.

All welcomed the idea of a relief from routine camp life by taking up field service.

Across the Rio Grande at Juarez the Carranza authorities were also busy, but their activity seemed to be confined to making preparations for a defence of the border port in case of attack rather than to sending troops to apprehend the Villa forces that attacked Columbus.

In this connection reports reached Fort Bliss that Major Tompkins, who led the American troops that crossed the border at Columbus, was remonstrated with by a Carranza officer when he returned to the international gate, about five miles from Columbus.

The Carranza officer protested against American troops going into Mexico, but Major Tompkins made a sharp reply, emphasized by the drawing of his revolver, and the Carranzista squad of about forty men did not interfere further.

500 IN PERIL.

Telephone messages from Columbus also said that among the Mexican raiders were some Carranza soldiers, but it is possible that these men were Villistas wearing stolen uniforms.

Villa has made several threats to attack El Paso. If he could take Juarez by a surprise attack his next exploit might be an assault across the international bridge.

There is no further doubt that every American who falls into Villa's hands will meet death. In the Casas Grandes region are about 500, mostly Mormons, who refused to leave when warned by American border authorities. These are said to be arranging to get out at the first opportunity.

CAPTURED AMERICAN WOMAN TELLS OF RAID BY VILLA

By International News Service.

Columbus, N. M., March 10.—How Francisco Villa with his bandits tore her from her husband's arms and gave her only baby to a Mexican woman, March 1, and then forced her to ride with his men on horseback to the border, a distance of nearly 300 miles, was related today by Mrs. Maud Wright, formerly of Houston, Texas, who resided with her husband on a ranch near Casas Grandes.

Mrs. Wright declares that Villa announced on March 1 his intention to attack Columbus, and proceeded north under forced marches to carry out his purpose.

His men, with scant supplies of water and meat, suffered severely, she said, and many dropped from their horses on the march to Boca Grande.

Villa, she declared, ruled them by fear, and his officers with the flats of their swords beat the soldiers into animation sufficient to reach that point, where they rested and prepared for the raid.

Tuesday, Mrs. Wright related, Villa bandits attacked employes of the Palomas Cattle Company, engaged in rounding up cattle, killing four Americans.

BABY GIVEN AWAY.

Mrs. Wright said her husband, Edward John Wright, formerly of Houston, Tex., and Frank Hayden, a youth employed at the La Booker saw mill, were taken from the Wright ranch, March 1, and presumably killed.

When she was taken prisoner and forced to ride away with a detachment of Villa's men under Colonel Nicholas Servantes, she said a bandit ordered her to give her baby to a Mexican family.

Mrs. Wright was cared for today at the home of Mrs. Slocum, wife of Colonel Slocum. There she told the story of her capture and experiences from the time she was taken from the ranch at Colonia Hernandes, west of Pearson, where the de facto Mexican government was reported to have maintained a heavy garrison for the protection of Americans.

Up to Wednesday, she said, Villa wore civilian clothes, a queer little round straw hat and rode a small mule, but just before the fight this morning he appeared clad in a trim military uniform and rode one of three handsome sorrel chargers which had not been used during the long march.

VILLA LED 1,500.

Mrs. Wright said Villa led nearly 1,500 men on the sleeping American town, at which were quartered less than 300 American troops.

She said some of the men detailed to guard her during the march north told her that Villa had 3,000 men and 6,000 horses.

"It appeared to me as if he had twice that many men and horses," she added.

Just before she and her husband were taken prisoner with the Hayden boy, Mrs. Wright said, the Villa men told her they had raided Colonia Juarez, an American Mormon settlement west of Pearson, looted all the stores and had killed some of the foreigners.

"Servantes with twelve men came to the ranch the night of March 1," Mrs. Wright said in her story. "They pretended to be Carranza soldiers and asked me if I had any food to sell. My husband and Frank Hayden were at Pearson buying supplies.

"I told them we had only a little flour and meal—just enough for our family and the family of a Mexican employe. I was cooking, in expectation of my husband's arrival home, and Servantes asked if he might buy food for some of his men. I told him I would give him and his men something to eat.

"It was just about dark then, and my husband came into the yard with two pack mules, which he unloaded. As soon as that was done some of the Mexicans caught and saddled the animals. My husband came into the house and said: 'That looks bad.' I said we would have to put up with it and do the best we could.

"Servantes became impatient and demanded to see our stores of flour and meal. As soon as I opened the storeroom he ordered some of his men to take all our supplies.

"Then they called my husband outside. The next I saw of him his hands had been tied behind his back. My husband called to Hayden, and he also was tied.

"Then I went with my baby in my arms to Servantes and told him that he had eaten our food, taken all of our flour and meal, leaving us nothing, and that I did not think it was just to make a prisoner of my husband. Meanwhile the soldiers, evidently at Servantes' order, began stripping the house of everything.

TOOK THIRTEEN HORSES.

"They took thirteen horses and every other animal on the ranch. I protested again, and Servantes said he would order the flour to be returned, but the man to whom he gave the order never moved.

"My husband was taken out to the gate of the ranch yard and tied there with Hayden. I went out with the baby to see him and saw that they had also made a prisoner of the Mexican who had been working about the place. A Mexican soldier ordered my husband not to talk. I said to my husband: 'I am sure they intend to kill you.' The soldier told me to shut up, and my husband said he thought everything would be all right if I went into the house. He said it was too cold for the baby outside.

"I went into the house, but soon afterward a soldier came in and said my husband wanted to see me. When I went out he told me to leave the baby with the wife of the Mexican, who had also been taken prisoner. I did that. The soldier and I went out together after he told me that my husband was at the top of a hill a short distance away.

THREATENED TO KILL ME.

"The soldier told me to mount behind on his horse. When I refused, he put me on one of the pack mules taken from my husband. I was suspicious, and said so. I did not see my husband. When I called he did not answer, then I said, 'I am going back to my baby.'

"The soldier replied, 'We have given your baby to a Mexican family.' That made me frantic, and I cried, 'I am going back to my baby,' whereupon the soldier drew his sword and declared that if I did he would kill me. I dismounted from the mule, but he forced me back, and I knew then I was a prisoner.

"We rode all that night and reached Jiminez, where we made camp for three hours. Three hours was the longest we ever stopped in any twenty-four until we reached the Boca Grande River.

"I saw Villa at Jiminez, but he refused to talk to me. 'I am too busy,' he would always say. "Talk to one of my colonels—that is what they are for." Throughout all the nine days I was a prisoner I slept only in the saddle, or in the camp a little while, with my head against a tree or stump.

RULED BY FEAR.

"The men guarding me treated me well and one of them told me that Villa's men did not love him, but were ruled entirely by the fear he had instilled in them.

"Villa was protected from assassins throughout the march by his officers—a score of colonels and generals—and a picked body of men known as 'Dorados,' who camped and rode by themselves."

Mrs. Wright then told of how the meat supply and water gave out during the march northward through the desert region of Chihuahua, and how men, thoroughly exhausted, would drop from their horses, only to be beaten and prodded with swords by Villa's officers until they remounted and again rejoined the column.

"From the first, I knew that Villa intended to attack Columbus," Mrs. Wright continued. "It was freely discussed by the men and the officers. Some of the latter told me that Villa intended to kill every American they could find, but they pointed to me as an example of their decision not to harm women.

Later, as we approached the border from Boca Grande, these same officers told me that Villa—his rage growing as he neared the boundary—would make torches of every woman and child, as well as of every man in Columbus.

"'He intended,' they said, 'to kill everybody in the United States and would be helped by Japan and Germany.' At Boca Grande I saw evidence of their determination.

"I did not see the three American cowboys named McKinney, Corbett and O'Neill slain, but I saw officers wearing their clothing. That was after Villa had sent out twenty men to break up the Palomas cattle round-up and supply the hungry column with meat.

"I did see another American killed. He appeared in the road just ahead of the column and a squad took out after him. He was trampled down by the horses of a score of men.

RUSH SOLDIERS TO HACHITA; FEAR NEW ATTACK BY BANDITS

By EDMOND BEHR,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, N. M., March 10.—While American troops were being shifted along the border today to prevent further raids by Francisco Villa and his troops, reports reached here that a large body of Mexicans were marching upon Hachita, N. M., with the intention of sacking that town and killing more United States citizens.

A picket on duty at Hachita sent warning to the military authorities that the Mexicans were only two miles from the town, which is eight miles north of the border and forty-two miles west of Columbus.

A telephone message from Hachita said that the Mexicans would meet a surprise if they made an attack, as the First Battalion of the Eleventh United States Infantry had arrived there to reinforce the small detachment of the Thirteenth Cavalry, formerly the sole protectors of that district. The infantry, under command of Major John C. Bennett, is well equipped with machine gun batteries.

WAIT REINFORCEMENTS.

Railroad service along the border has been suspended, owing to yesterday's attack on Columbus, which resulted in the killing of seventeen Americans, including soldiers and civilians. Trains eastbound from Hachita and westbound from Columbus were held up at those two points in fear that the Villaistas would wreck them and kill the passengers.

The pursuit of the Mexican raiders who spread death and destruction in Columbus was ended today. The American troopers who drove out Villa and his outlaws chased them five miles into Mexico, but had to turn back when they found that they were far outnumbered.

Word has been passed along the border that the American government is going to take up the pursuit of Villa and his murderers as soon as sufficient troops can be moved here.

Villa is reported to have been wounded in the raid which he led yesterday, but his body was not found among the corpses of Mexicans found in the town or across the border.

According to one prisoner, Villa was assisted to his horse by two of his bodyguards and fled at the head of his men when they retreated.

EXPECT NEW ATTACKS.

None of the American military officers here doubt that Villa will make other attacks along the border. He is short of supplies and those which he had hoped to get in Columbus were abandoned in great part in the hurried flight from Columbus when his raiders were driven out by the American troopers.

After a tense but quiet night Columbus took up the sad task of burying and shipping away the bodies of the Americans killed in Thursday's attack. The hysteria caused by the massacre had subsided and the residents had settled down to the grim task of removing evidences of the tragedy that had turned the quiet little town into the abode of death.

Americans who had met Villa reiterated their declaration that the rebel leader directed the Columbus attack in person. Their statements were corroborated by Captain Faviano Garcia, a member of the Mexican party captured by the United States troops. He said that Villa remained in a protected spot on the outskirts of Columbus during the fighting and directed his detachments by bugle calls and messages transmitted by mounted orderlies.

VILLA BAND SEPARATES.

Mrs. Maud Wright, who had been taken prisoner by the Mexicans south of the border after her husband had been murdered and was released yesterday, asserts that Villa attended a council of the raiders' leaders near the border on the night before the attack.

Mrs. Wright believes that Villa is able to master a fighting force of 6,000 men, but reports to Colonel Slocum, commander of the American troops at Columbus, indicate that the Villista army is now scattered into five or six bands of varying strength, some of which are working along the border with the intention of attacking isolated American settlements. The largest body was reported late yesterday to be about twenty miles south of Columbus.

Yesterday morning's attack caused a complete surprise, but all necessary precautions were taken last night. Women and children made homeless by the burning of their abodes slept on blankets in the town schoolhouse, while husbands and fathers stood guard with rifles and pistols.

The little town was an armed camp. Sentries challenged at every corner and grim determination was revealed by the faces of the sentinels. No frontier post in the old Indian wars ever had a tenser vigil.

During the late afternoon a number of the more timid women were sent to interior points by automobiles, and during the night the bodies of those killed by the Mexicans were being prepared at improvised morgues for burial.

While J. J. Moore lay dead his wife, herself seriously wounded, was calling for him piteously. She was told that her husband was safe and well. It is feared that the shock of learning of her husband's death will be fatal.

In the little schoolhouse a baby girl cried herself to sleep in the midst of pain caused by injuries inflicted by the glass of a window shattered by a Mexican bullet in the room where the child and her mother cowered in terror.

The night breeze wafted over the town a strange odor. It came from the pyres where are being cremated bodies of the slain Mexicans. It was borne through the shattered window that gave evidence of the destruction wrought by the raiders' bullets.

Over the desolate but vigilant town was seen faintly the red glow of the dying embers which were all that remained of the hotel and several homes.

At the camp of the Thirteenth cavalry arrangements were being made to ship to their distant homes for burial the bodies of the soldiers killed. Tributes to the valor of the slain soldiers were paid on all sides today.

The finest came from a grizzled sergeant, who said, his eyes blazing with wrath at the Villistas:

"These boys certainly stood up to their work like veterans. The boys have never been under fire before, but they never faltered."

In addition to the Mexicans killed in the town and as they crossed the border from forty to fifty were shot down in the pursuit south of the international line. One officer said that at least 150 of Villa's men were killed and as many more wounded.

The Mexicans wasted their ammunition, shooting at every moving thing. They even shot down dogs in the streets.

Over 12,000 U. S Troops Are Ready

Washington, March 10.—Aroused over the unprovoked attack by General Villa and his bandits on Columbus, N. M., and the camp of the Thirteenth United States Cavalry stationed there, the Wilson administration is determined to punish the perpetrators of the outrage, it was announced today, and will send a new punitive expedition into Mexico to capture Villa and those who participated in the raid.

On high authority the statement is made that the United States army will be utilized in the crisis regardless of the attitude of the Carranza government. It developed that Secretary of State Lansing so informed Senor Elisio Arrendondo, confidential agent of the Carranza government, during a visit of the latter to the State Department.

It is stated that the United States government will give its army a "free rein" in dealing with the Villa raiders.

TROOPS IN READINESS.

Official announcement is made that over 12,000 troops are immediately available for duty in the border zone. Of this total there are more than 4,000 cavalry and a battalion of the Fourth Mountain Artillery, with twelve mountain guns, in the territory between Douglas, Ariz., and El Paso, Tex. They could be assembled at any point within twenty-four hours.

In the same territory are eight regiments of infantry, the Sixth Field Artillery and another battalion of the Fourth Field Artillery, making an additional force of approximately 8,000 infantrymen and thirty-six field and mountain guns which could be gathered at Columbus within two days.

Reports that the American troopers were in action, probably fifteen miles south of the border against a much larger force of bandits, were heard with anxious interest in official circles. Five troops of cavalry are known to have crossed the border.

CONGRESS PLEASED.

Shocked indignation occasioned by Villa's outrage was quickly succeeded by undisguised satisfaction in official and congressional circles over the knowledge that, after three years of patient forbearance, United States troops actually were on Mexican soil to avenge the death of their comrades and to bring to justice the outlaws whose depredations have terrorized Americans on both sides of the border.

All Washington stands squarely behind Colonel Slocum in sending his cavalrymen in Mexico in pursuit of Villa and his outlaws who murdered American soldiers and citizens at Columbus. Secretary Lansing has informed the de facto government of Mexico that he trusted no objection would be made to the action of the American troops, they having followed what is known in military circles as a "hot trail."

U. S. Can No Longer Tolerate Anarchy, Declares Coudert

By FREDERIC R. COUDERT,
Noted Authority on International Law and Precedent.

New York, March 10.—American citizenship has come to be something not respected. It is lamentable that this should be the case, yet it seems to be so.

Mexico is in a condition of chronic and apparently irremediable anarchy. Personally I do not believe, and have not for some time past, that the situation would or could right itself.

This latest manifestation—the actual invasion of American territory and the wanton slaughter of American citizens—indicates that the United States, even in the wildest exuberance of pacifism, cannot disinterest itself from Mexican affairs.

Permanent anarchy in Mexico cannot be tolerated. It has only endured as long as it has by reason of the fact that the European powers are unable, because of the war, to protect their own citizens.

We can't blow hot and blow cold. If Mexican affairs are as indifferent to us as Servian affairs, then we must give up all pretense at maintaining the Monroe Doctrine, which has precluded the other powers from using force to protect their own citizens.

Interpreted by us on the basis of a dog-in-the-manger policy, it would put a premium on and immunize professional bandits, such as Villa and the others.

Unwhipped of justice by the United States, and protected by the United States from retributive punishment administered by other nations, the fair land of Mexico might appear to be irredeemably dedicated to chronic anarchy.

But I do not, cannot and will not believe that American public opinion will definitely and finally sanction any such situation.

Boy, 14, Tells of Columbus Raid.

By EDMUND BEHR,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, N. M., March 10.—One of the heroes of the Mexican attack upon Columbus is a fourteen-year-old American boy. He is Arthur Ravel, who was captured by Villa's men, but later escaped.

"They came into the house and pulled me out of bed," said young Ravel today. "There were several Mexicans on each side of the bed, and all had pistols or rifles. One of them held a pistol against my head and told me that if I did not tell them where every American in the town lived he would kill me.

"'We are going to kill them all,' said the Mexican. I could hear rifle shots, and when we got out we could see the fire coming from the rifle barrels in the darkness.

"One of the men asked me if I had any brothers, and I said that I had one. Then the leader of the gang told me to take them to the place where my brother was, but I knew they wanted to kill him, and decided to trick them. My brother was sleeping in our store, but instead of taking the men there, I led them to another part of the town.

"By this time there were about thirty or forty Mexicans in the gang. When we got in front of the Commercial Hotel they stopped and were joined by about 50 more Mexicans who were yelling and shooting like maniacs. Ten or fifteen of them ran into the hotel and dragged out three or four American men and a woman.

"Two Mexicans turned loose with the rifles and the men fell. One of the others pointed his gun at the woman, and I guess he would have killed her, but she shouted 'Viva Mexico,' and he put down his gun. If she was not cool enough to think of that they would have killed her all right."

Slocum Comes of Fighting Family.

New York, March 10.—Colonel Herbert Jermain Slocum, commander of the American forces at Columbus, N. M., is about fifty years old and the son of Colonel J. J. Slocum, of No. 791 Madison avenue.

He is a nephew of Mrs. Russell Sage and brother of Major Stephen L'Hommedieu Slocum, U. S. A., who was military attache from the United States at the Court of St. James in 1911. Their sister is Mrs. Sherman Flint, No. 791 Madison avenue.

Herbert Jermain Slocum, Jr., Edwin and Morris S. Slocum are grandsons. They are related by marriage to General E. A. McAlpin, whose wife was their mother's sister. Herbert Jermain Slocum, Jr., married in 1912 Miss Marguerite Spear, daughter of Mrs. Edwin Hudson Spear of this city.

Colonel Herbert Jermain Slocum married Miss Brandreth, one of the most beautiful women in Ossining, N. Y. She lost her life in an automobile accident in Washington in March, 1910, the machine in which she was riding with General J. Franklin Bell being struck by a trolley car.

In November, 1911, announcement was made of the engagement of Colonel Slocum and Mrs. Pascual Carr of Pittsburgh.

Colonel Slocum has been stationed on several occasions at Governors Island. He was attached to General Merritt's staff there in the late nineties. His last assignment there was about five years ago, in the post of Inspector-General. From there he went to Cuba, where he had formerly organized the rural guards for the Cuban government.

Upon his return home he spent a short time at Fort Leavenworth, and then joined his regiment on the Mexican border.

FUNSTON MOVES MEN; READY TO CHASE VILLA

he would forward it to the War Department.

Major-General Funston's telegraphic appeal to the War Department read as follows:

FUNSTON APPEALS.

Urgently recommend that American troops be given authority to pursue into Mexican territory hostile Mexican bandits who raid American territory. So long as border is a shelter for them, they will continue to harass our ranches and towns, to our chagrin. General Pershing reports that Mexican consul at El Paso thinks that there should be no objection to American troops entering Mexico in pursuit of Villa, and that he would wire his government recommending co-operation.

(Signed) FUNSTON.

Previous to this Funston had notified the War Department that Villa's forces were decisively defeated in an engagement five miles across the border from Columbus, N. M., late yesterday afternoon. Funston's report said:

TROOPS ARE MOVED.

Slocum reports: "I sent three troops under Tompkins across the border this morning. Pursued Villa five miles, driving him into rough country, where he scattered after making final stand, which stopped Tompkins' advance. These troops returned to Columbus after about three hours. Loss, one corporal, Troop G, in list already furnished you." (Signed) FUNSTON.

The following message was received a little later from General Funston:

Have ordered battalion infantry from Fort Bliss to Columbus to garrison town, leaving cavalry free for field movements; also ordered two companies of infantry from Douglas to San Bernardino ranch.

(Signed) FUNSTON.

Funston Ready For Any Emergency

By International News Service.

Washington, March 10.—General Funston telegraphed the War Department that he had shifted the border patrol so as to relieve all cavalry troops for emergency duty at any place. His message telling of the changes follows:

"Have made following disposition of troops for protection of border:

"Three companies of infantry at Columbus, one company at Victoria, two companies at Hachita, two companies at Las Cienegas, two companies at San Bernardino, two companies at Naco, one company guarding bridges at San Bernardino.

"These dispositions will release cavalry, making them available to any call. Eleventh cavalry ordered to Douglas, leaving guard for Huachuca; troop A, 7th cavalry, to Alamohuaco; five troops and machine gun troop of 7th cavalry should reach Lang's ranch today."

"Exterminate Villa" Says General Miles.

Philadelphia, March 10.—"Villa and his bandits should be exterminated. The quicker he and his followers are lined in front of a wall and shot, the better off will be Mexico and the United States." Thus declared Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., retired.

Senators Strong for 'On to Mexico' Campaign

By International News Service.

Washington, March 10.—Senators and Representatives today voiced a strong demand for armed intervention by the United States in Mexico as a result of the massacre at Columbus, N. M. Among the expressions are the following:

SENATOR THOMAS W. L. CATRON, REPUBLICAN, OF NEW MEXICO:

Why should this government ask permission of Carranza or anybody else to cross the boundary in pursuit of men who have committed such a dastardly crime as this?

When Mexican bandits, of whatever they may be, cross the border, enter the United States, burn our towns and murder American men, women and children, it certainly is time for action of the most aggressive sort.

It is no time for parleying and standing upon ceremony. The United States should have sent troops into Mexico to capture the first band that injured an American. If we had done this two or three years ago the attack at Columbus would never have occurred.

SENATOR POMERENE, OF OHIO, DEMOCRATIC MEMBER OF THE FOREIGN RELATIONS COMMITTEE:

If the press reports are true, as undoubtedly they are, that these bandits came over into United States territory and committed this assault, there seems to be nothing else to do but to send our troops in pursuit to capture them.

HENRY F. ASHURST, SENATOR FROM ARIZONA:

All the energies of our government should be utilized promptly in pursuing the red-handed murderers who invaded the United States at Columbus, N. M., and by the use of all necessary force and violence bring them back to the scene of the murders and shoot them on the spot.

I believe patience has ceased to be a virtue with Mexico. I am for peace, but not for peace at any price. If we are going to stand for American rights this is the time.

The murderers should be promptly dealt with, and the government, or status quo, in Mexico responsible should be called upon and be made to pay the proper sums as damages.

SENATOR WILLIAM J. STONE, DEMOCRAT, OF MISSOURI, CHAIRMAN OF FOREIGN RELATIONS COMMITTEE:

I shall await official reports on this matter and official action by the Executive branch of the government before I discuss it. My general views about the Mexican situation are pretty well known.

SENATOR GEORGE W. NORRIS, REPUBLICAN, OF NEBRASKA:

I would not stop to ask permission of anybody to deal with this thing. I would just issue orders to the American soldiers to get them, no matter where they had to go, and I rather think that once that order were issued the American troops would finish that job before they came back.

SENATOR WARREN G. HARDING, REPUBLICAN, OF OHIO:

I am glad to see something being done from the American viewpoint if it is true active steps to avenge this crime are under way. It was inevitable that something of this kind would happen.

SENATOR J. A. O'GORMAN, OF NEW YORK, MEMBER OF FOREIGN RELATIONS COMMITTEE:

Carranza might well give his consent to American troops entering Mexico in pursuit of these bandits in order to rid himself of Villa and his followers. Yet, if he is suspicious of our motive, he might refuse, although there is no ground for any suspicion.

If all reports be true, however, Colonel Slocum seems to have solved that problem by going across the line.

The Democratic platform pledged the party to protect American citizens wherever they may be. In Mexico they are going about their legitimate business in places where they have rights and privileges.

30 Carranza Men Executed by Villa

Laredo, Tex., March 10.—Thirty or more Carranza soldiers, including a number of officers, were executed by bandits three days ago near Torreon, according to authentic information received here.

The bandits were reported to be adherents of General Villa and commanded by Colonel Chacon.

MORE GAINS FOR GERMANS IN WOEVRE

By the International News Service.

London, March 10.—The German War Office, in in official statement today, admitted that the French had gained a firm foothold in Fort De Vaux, northeast of Verdun, which was reported captured by the Germans yesterday. East of the Meuse River, while clearing the French from Corbeaux forest and the position at Bethincourt, the Germans captured six officers, 681 men and 11 cannon.

More ground has been gained by the Germans on the Woevre plain, southeast of Damloup.

Two more allied aeroplanes have been shot down by the Germans. The following is the text of the official German report:

"West front—On the east bank of the Meuse, while clearing the French from Corbeaux forest and their trenches at Bethincourt, we took six officers and 681 men prisoners and captured eleven cannon.

CAPTURE WOODS.

"We have captured the wood on Ablain ridge, west of Douaumont.

"In the Woevre region we pushed our lines forward in the wood southeast of Damloup.

"The French counter-attacked our front east and south of the village of Vaux and the fort de Vaux. They succeeded in obtaining a firm foothold in the fort, but were elsewhere repulsed.

"We shot down an English monoplane at Wytschaete (Belgium) and a biplane northeast of La Bassee. The occupant of the monoplane was dead.

"East Front—There is nothing to report.

"Balkan Front—The positions are unchanged."

Damloup is three miles east of Verdun and two and one-half miles southeast of Douaumont.

Enormous losses have been inflicted upon the Teuton troops, and around the ruins of what was once Vaux piles of corpses dot the ground.

The German attacks are shifting first to the east side of the Meuse and then to the west, with the evident purpose of keeping the French guessing.

FRENCH REPORT.

The French official communique today says:

"In the Argonne our artillery has shelled enemy convoys observed on the Montfaucon-Avocourt road.

"West and east of the Meuse the situation is unchanged. During the night the enemy launched no infantry attacks against our positions. Both sides have continued the bombardment on most of the front. This was violent on the right and left banks of the Meuse, but intermittent in the Woevre region.

"In Alsace our batteries shattered German trenches on Hill No. 425, east of Thann.

"The night was calm on the rest of the front.

"On March 8, our aviation forces were particularly active. Numerous combats were fought by our machines, most of them within the enemy's lines. In the course of these aerial conflicts 15 German aviators were put to flight. Ten were seen rapidly descending at straight down toward their lines.

"According to other reports, which are reliable, two German aeroplanes, one of which was a Fokker machine, were brought down in Champagne and three in the Verdun region. These machines fell within the German lines."

END NOT IN SIGHT.

This is the nineteenth day of the conflict, and the end is not yet in sight.

In fact, some of the military experts are now admitting that they were mistaken when they declared that the Teuton assaults were growing weaker. Using their men in the old style massed formation the Germans are attacking with the same vigor that marked the early stages of the battle.

The Crown Prince has recently brought up fresh artillery to the front and the cannonade which rages night and day has set a new mark in the anals of destructive warfare. For miles around the earth is trembling from the concussion of heavy artillery fire with the undulations of an earthquake.

OWEN MAGNETIC A SHOW FEATURE

The Owen Magnetic is proving a centre of attraction at the Auto Show, while thousands of people have visited the Owen Magnetic Salon at 895 Boylston street, where M. F. Chase, Inc., is displaying a stripped chassis that makes very clear the principles of this wonderful gearless, clutchless transmission.

The magnetic transmission is of course the most interesting feature of the car, and, as it is the first time an Owen Magnetic chassis has been exhibited in New England, visitors to the auto show made it a point to ride or walk around the square to the salon on Boylston street. The display of new models there is most complete, with body work from the studios and shops of America's master designers.

For years automobile engineers have been trying to do away with the gear set composed of transmission and clutch, as being unmechanical. The Entz system of magnetic transmission, which is to be found in the Owen Magnetic being manufactured by The Baker R. & L. Company, solves the problem in theory as well as in practice.

SENATOR LODGE ON BOSTON VISIT

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge is in Boston today for a stay till March 18, having come to deliver addresses at Worcester March 14, before the Massachusetts Trust Companies' Association, and the following night at a Lynn Republican club banquet. He declined today to comment upon the Villa raid, Roosevelt's statement or any other national or international topic.

Ladies' Day at S. B. Y. C.

The house committee of the South Boston Yacht Club will give a Ladies' Day Sunday at 3 p. m. at the clubhouse. There will be a band concert, singing and monologues.

WAR SUMMARY

The latest official bulletins on the Verdun fighting report terrific struggles both east and west of the Meuse, with the battle line swaying back and forth over the shell-torn ground and no advantage on either side.

The bulletins are somewhat contradictory, both sides claiming to hold Corbeaux wood, west of the Meuse. Confusion here may arise from the fact that the boundaries of any one forest in a wooded country are uncertain.

Paris dispatches say the German attacks are steadily growing in intensity, so that the height of the terrific battle is yet to come.

Germany has declared war on Portugal. As things stand, this is unlikely to add much real fighting to the war. But it is not impossible that Spain may next take a hand. Spain covets Gibraltar; and sovereignty over Portugal, lying like a patch on Spain's western coast, would be appreciated by many Spanish statesmen.

The Spanish Cabinet met immediately after Germany's declaration of war to consider the matter. Should Spain "come in" on the side of Germany, the result would be a heavy tax on France, putting her under the necessity of defending both her northern and southern frontiers at a time when her reserves of men are approaching exhaustion.

Flanders, the Caucasus, Persia, Poland and the Trentino were all relatively quiet today.

BOSTON COULD BE TAKEN, SAYS MACLAURIN

Either Boston or New York could be attacked and probably taken in four weeks by a German fleet, was the statement made today by President Richard C. Maclaurin of Massachusetts Institute of Technology before the Women's branch of the National Security League at No. 601 Boylston street.

Dr. Maclaurin quoted from General von Edlesheim of the German Army, who has given special study to the American defences.

"Are we as a nation really prepared if we were attacked?" asked Dr. Maclaurin.

"Most of the evils in life come from neglect. We cannot be idealists on this subject; we must deal with facts. The great pond which divides us from Europe is narrower today than the English channel was to France and Germany of fifty years ago.

"We have much to think about in an attack from a foreign foe. Our war with Spain, a tenth rate power, has put us off our guard with respect to preparedness.

"The first defence we have against a foe is our navy. As scientific people, let us learn the facts about this navy. It is extremely inefficient. This is due in the first place to the shortage of men. You can't teach a man to run a battleship in a week or a month. Then there is a shortage of officers.

"We discovered the aeroplane and have done nothing to popularize it in our war equipments. We Americans are so optimistic, we assume we will win in the long run with any foe.

"Look at our coast defences! Many of them were built at least forty years ago. In those defences the supply of Ammunition would only last an hour.

"A German fleet and army could easily attack us in Boston or New York, and in four weeks land soldiers to take our central points of trade. We would not be able to resist her in this length of time. This is what General von Edlesheim said before the war, and his words have much meaning for us all."

Mother Gives Credit to Father John's Medicine

Giving credit for the benefits received, the following letter from the mother of these two little girls is of special interest: "My two little girls, whose picture I send you, have taken Father John's Medicine with good results. One of the children, Marcella, had throat trouble and tried several remedies, as well as the doctor's medicine, but did not get relief until she took Father John's Medicine upon the advice of an aunt. This little girl is now strong and healthy and able to resume her studies at school, which she had to leave for three months while under the care of the doctor. The other little girl is using the medicine as a tonic and it helps her." (Signed) Mrs. Margaret M. Carey, 537 Barbadoes street, Norristown, Pa.

ESCAPED GERMAN, REACHES BOSTON

The American-Hawaii liner Kansan, under charter to the France-Canada line, arrived in port today with a German former war prisoner who escaped from a detention camp near St. Nazaire, France.

The man stowed away and was not discovered until the Kansan was well at sea.

He was examined by immigration officials, and will probably be turned over to some charitable German society, as was the case of another German prisoner who reached Boston two months ago.

The stowaway, August F. Dannenseldt, was captured with thousands of other Germans, he said, at the battle of the Marne seventeen months ago. He was confined with them at night in a stockade at La Pallice, but during the day was employed as a dock laborer. On the night of February 26 Dannenseldt with several other prisoners escaped from the stockade and made his way to the steamer. He concealed himself by burrowing under burlap bagging and escaped discovery, but the others were found and sent back.

GERMANS SINK 2 STEAMERS FROM U. S.

London, March 10.—Two British war craft and two French steamships from the United States have been sunk and a Swedish steamer has been badly damaged by German submarines and mines.

The admiralty announced today:

"The torpedo boat destroyer Coquette and the torpedo boat No. 11 have struck mines off the East coast and been sunk. The casualties were:

"On the Coquette, one officer and twenty-one men.

"On the No. 11, three officers and twenty men."

The Coquette, a ship of 355 tons, was armed with one 12-pounder and five 6-pounders. She carried a crew of 60 men and was commanded by Lieutenant Frederick A. Warner.

The torpedo boat No. 11 was armed with two 3-inch guns and three 18-inch torpedo tubes. She carried a crew of thirty-five men. The torpedo boat displaced 253 tons and was built in 1906.

These are the first ships of the British navy sunk since the report that German ships had mined the North Sea. The French steamer, Ville du Havre, 5,026 tons, has been sunk, presumably by a submarine. Two members of the crew were lost. Twenty-six others were saved.

The steamer was bound from New York to Marseilles. It left New York on March 2. While bound from New Orleans to Havre, France, the French steamer Louisiane was torpedoed and sunk by a submarine Thursday in the Atlantic Ocean, off the French coast. The crew was saved.

The Louisane was owned by the Compagnie Generale Trans-Atlantique and displaced 5,109 tons. It sailed from New Orleans on February 11 with an 11,000-ton cargo of American goods for the French government. On February 17 it arrived at Newport News, Va., and continued its voyage from that part the next day.

Captain Lapetre was in command of the vessel, which was built in 1905 at Dunkirk. It was 369 feet long and 47 feet wide.

The sinking of the French steamers is accepted as indicating the opening of a submarine campaign against merchant ships carrying munitions from America to the allies.

Dispatches from Malmoe, Sweden, report that the Swedish steamer Marta, bound from Stockholm to Grimsby, England, struck a mine in the Baltic, off Falsterbo, today and was badly damaged.

CAPT. SMYSER WELL KNOWN IN BOSTON

Captain Rudolph Smyser of Troop H of the Thirteenth Cavalry, who had an active part in the fighting at Columbus, N. M., yesterday when Villa bandits raided the town, murdering and burning, has many friends in Boston.

He first saw fighting in the Philippines, acquitting himself there with great credit. Upon his return to this country, about ten years ago, he was ordered to Boston.

Here he served as district quartermaster. His offices were on Summer street, and his acquaintance among Boston people was extensive.

From here Captain Smyser went to Leavenworth, Kas., where he married. He and his wife have three children.

He is a native of York, Pa.

For some time past he has been in command of Troop H at Columbus, and he and his family occupied a residence there.

When the Mexican bandits sneaked into the town before dawn yesterday a number of them surrounded his residence.

Captain Smyser was awakened by the noise and crept to the window. He heard someone tell the Mexicans that an American army officer and his family lived within.

A moment later the Mexicans began to batter at his front door. He woke his wife, and with their three children they hurried out by the back door and took refuge in the barn as the bandits broke in the front door of the house.

While Captain Smyser and his family waited in the barn the bandits looted the house. Then they approached the barn to set it afire. Captain Smyser held them off momentarily; and at the moment when affairs became critical the American troops came that way and drove off the bandits.

Captain Smyser saw his family safely among friends, then joined his troops and led in the fighting that drove the Villa men from the town and back into Mexico.

PICRIC ACID TO BE MADE AT WOBURN

No more trinitrotoluol is to be manufactured at the war munitions colony in Woburn, where the big tank of trinitrate of toluol exploded recently. The New England Manufacturing Company of Woburn, a subsidiary concern to the Merrimac Chemical Company, has informed Secretary Lake of Metropolitan Fire Prevention Commissioner's office that the manufacture of this explosive will not be resumed. Picric acid will be made in the buildings.

HAVE ROSY CHEEKS AND FEEL FRESH AS A DAISY—TRY THIS!

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

To see the tinge of healthy bloom in your face, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, to wake up without a headache, backache, coated tongue or a nasty breath; in fact, to feel your best, day in and day out, just try inside-bathing every morning for one week.

Before breakfast each day drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it as a harmless means of washing from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the blood and internal organs. Those who are subject to constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, rheumatic twinges, also those whose skin is sallow and complexion pallid, are assured that one week of inside-bathing will have them both looking and feeling better in every way.—Advertisement.

SUCH overwhelming success attended our special sale of last week that we have gone carefully through our stock again and rounded up another group of Morse-Made Suits and Overcoats regularly sold at

$30, $25, $22.50 and $20

and marked them for speedy action at

$17.50

The 350 Suits include an assortment of Staple Fabrics and Mixtures, many of them carried over from last Fall and many of them quite new.

The Majority of the 300 Overcoats are Black or Oxford Gray Chesterfields, in most cases silk lined and with silk faced lapels; but there are some Fancy Mixtures included.

Frankly, most of the Overcoats, too, are last Fall's garments. We are marking them at this price because the change toward narrow lapels this season has made them just a trifle behind the Fashion

SCHOOL STRIKE OFF; NEW DEFI AT CHELSEA

Peace settled over the Chelsea High School today—with a war cloud in the offing.

Strike talk by pupils as a result of the refusal of Principal Herman S. Gammons to remove the suspension imposed on three class officers after a theatre party during school hours, unless they resigned their offices, had greatly stirred the school yesterday. Today the three officers handed in their resignations and returned to school.

But this afternoon the senior class meets to elect new officers and now plans to re-elect the three who have resigned. Principal Gammons says he will not allow the three to serve. The pupils say if they are elected they will serve, or there will be a strike.

Principal Gammons today told the whole story of the trouble.

APPEALED TO COMMITTEE.

"On February 29," he said, "those three boys—President John MacLeod of the senior class, Treasurer Morris Gerring of the same class, and Vice-President Frank Dacey of the athletic association—went in town to a moving picture show with two young girls, also seniors.

"They should have been at school, and I suspected where they had gone and notified Truant Officer Patrick J. Gaffney.

"He went to Boston, found them and brought them back to the school. They were all suspended by me.

"The girls felt especially badly, and the boys were much distressed. So I allowed the girls to return to school and told the boys they could also return if they would resign their class offices.

"The boys refused to do so and appealed to the school committee, which referred the matter to the high school committee.

"The high school committee yesterday sustained me, and so today the boys handed me their resignations as class officers and returned to school."

VOTE TO SUSTAIN BOYS.

But girls of the class held a meeting at the home of one of their number last night and determined, so it is said, to vote at the class meeting today to re-elect the three boys—so another crisis threatens.

The sub-committee on high school, composed of the Rev. R. Perry Bush, chairman; Edward H. Lowell, president; Dr. David Walper and Dr. Martin T. Ford, heard the stories of the boys and Principal Gammons' version. A petition signed by the members of the class was also presented to the School Committee.

GIRL DENIES ALL BLAME IN SLIVERS' DEATH

New York, March 10.—A girl with tears swimming in her brown eyes looked into the whirling snow drifts about the Bedford Hills reformatory and insisted she was not responsible for the death of Slivers.

"He never loved me," she said. "If he had, he would have paid me some attention, since he disgraced me and had me sent up here. I never loved him; I was afraid of him, and I never wanted to hear his name again."

When the famous clown went to Bedford to ask Viola Stoll to marry him, his mind was already clouded with the fog in which he finally lost his way when he killed himself Wednesday morning.

Slivers is dead, and the pathos of his end will throw a shadow over all the antics of his brother clowns; but Viola is alive, with a long, useful life ahead of her, if she can make good her first great mistake.

She is planning to give up the stage and go into dressmaking with her mother in Chicago when she is released from the reformatory in June. It seemed unkind to her friends to add to her handicap by holding her to blame for Silver's death. He was dead twelve hours before the letter arrived from Bedford which told him that Viola did not care for him, she insisted yesterday.

SHE WANTED A HOME.

"Why should I marry him?" she asked. "He wanted me to go back to the circus. If he had offered me a real home——

"I was down and out when I met Slivers. He went with me to several managers, thinking his influence would get me work, but it was the end of the season. Then he said I could stay at his house. I was desperate, and went. I had known him only two or three months, and wasn't dazzled by his fame, because I didn't know how great he was. I was only 16.

"Of course, he liked me a little. That was how he happened to give me the jewels. I didn't steal them. I didn't like being with him, and said so after two weeks. He wouldn't let met go, but while he was in Baltimore I ran away, pawned one of the rings and went to my friends in St. Louis.

"Afterward he had me arrested. Then he tried to get me free, and finally said if I would plead guilty it would be easier. This is the way he kept his promise." She looked down resentfully at her institution dress.

"I told the judge he wanted to help me, and the probation officer said if he felt that way in six months perhaps something could be done. But he didn't stick to me. After two months he said he had been thinking it over and didn't care enough about me tod isgrace his little girl any more. He wanted to get rid of me.

"I never heard from him until he came up here. It just seemed that I wanted to forget him, and the thing to do was to say so right away. I am sorry it happened this way, but I can't believe it was sorrw over me that drove him to it."

FANG IN ANOTHER HEART.

A golden-haired, gray-eyed little girl of twelve was the hit of an amateur theatrical performance at Garden City, Monday evening. Dressed in a quaint little gown of the fashion of the sixties, she sang and danced with joy. From her mother she had inherited her love for dancing, and from her father, Slivers, came the blessings of a sense of the comic.

Wednesday morning she was told her father was sick; all day she lingered near the telephone for news. She remembered that day three years before when just such a message had brought her to a hospital where her mother lay dying, and she puzzled over what her fathers illness might be. Lately, although she did not see him often, the tall, serious-faced man had seemed closer to her.

"I wonder if he will die," she said to her companion. "He wasn't well the last time he came to see me. What is the matter with him?"

It was difficult for the woman to answer. She knew Slivers was already dead. She knew the manner of his death—self-imposed asphyxiation.

That evening Verona Oakley was told she was fatherless. The shock, although she had been prepared for it, was tremendous. Her father gone—the father who had given her a beautiful locket the last time they met. She could not realize it.

RADCLIFFE FROWNS ON HARVARD SATIRE

Radcliffe students do not approve of "Harvard Inside-out," the daring little satire on the members of the Harvard faculty for at least three reasons. Professor Charles T. Copeland was not mentioned. Professor Hart's likeness is drawn with three of the buttons on his coat buttoned and he has long been known as the "one button" professor. Three of the professors lampooned have daughters in college, the Misses Dora Kittridge, Margaret J. Carver and Constance Wiener.

PLAN TO ASSIST HARVARD UNION

Major Henry Lee Higginson, donor of the Harvard Union, is in favor of making membership in that organization compulsory for Harvard undergraduates. The Major says that in his opinion, it is the one solution of the problem of making the Union self-supporting and a centre of undergraduate interest.

Arrest Young Man as Annoyer of Phone Girls

A young man who has been annoying telephone girls in the main exchange on Milk street on recent nights was arrested shortly before midnight by Patrolman A. A. Sullivan of Court square station. He was identified later by some of the girls and then was locked up.

In order to spare the girls the disagreeable task of appearing in open court and testifying to the annoyance they had suffered, the police decided to release the youth after he had been given a vigorous reprimand and after [illegible] had been informed.

BEQUEST TO AID HARVARD DRAMA

Harvard legacies in the shape of a memorial dramatic performance have been started with the announcement of the establishment of the Thurston M. Ware Memorial Production, which is to take place in April. This, Professor George P. Baker of the Department of Dramatic Literature hopes, is but the first of a number of annual productions, the donors wishing to honor a friend or relative who, when living, was a valuable ally to the drama. The idea is to award to the most promising playwrights one of these productions during the year, just as a scholarship is awarded.

Boston Starts on Its Sixth Foot of Snow

Boston's sixth foot of snow began today with the new snowstorm which set in over the Metropolitan District at 4:30 a. m.

Up to yesterday an even five feet had fallen on this section so far during the Winter of 1915-16. This made a new record, beating any snowfall Boston has known for nine Winters.

With many sidewalks still white from the storm of Wednesday night, a new layer of "the beautiful" began to accumulate before dawn. Railroad and trolley men were dismayed.

FISH FAMINE IS BECOMING ACUTE

The fish famine in Boston became acute today when not a vessel arrived at the Fish Pier. According to statistics compiled by the Boston Fish Bureau, 727,195 pounds of fish arrived at the pier during the week ending yesterday, as compared with 1,491,445 pounds the preceding week. Fish dealers say the scarcity is due to the continued stormy weather and that but for the large stock in cold storage it would be almost impossible to buy fish.

French Wounded Fund.

The American fund for the French wounded made a new record by sending abroad this week 158 cases of supplies.

Taunton Woman Sued for $10,000 for Alienation

The plaintiff, Mrs. Fountain, is the wife of a fire department chauffeur, while Mrs. Hall's husband is a keeper in the Taunton jail.

Two months ago the women met on the street and engaged in a controversy which ended when Mrs. Hall telephoned for the police.

BOOST CONSUL'S PAY; EGGS $1.50 A DOZEN

Washington, March 10.—The House Committee on Foreign Affairs, which passed on the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill which increases the appropriation by $1,500,000, has come to the rescue of American consuls and diplomatic officers, whose salaries have been insufficient in many cases to meet the soaring cost of living. Representative Cooper read to the committee a letter from England containing the information that the price of eggs was six shillings a dozen.

You Say This?

THOUSANDS of women who read this soliloquy will recognize it as their own:

"Yes, I cling to the Nemo because I have found a Nemo model that fits as though it were made for me, and because the Nemo is a REAL corset—never faddish or freaky.

"Of course Nemo fashion-lines change with the fashions; but the Nemo hygienic features never change—except when they're improved. I always know just what corset-service I am getting.

"Besides, I have found that the Nemo Corset will wear twice as long as any other."

There is a Nemo model for every type of figure, short or tall; stout, thin or medium. Here is a group of popular Nemo Corsets for stout women of three distinct types:

No. 318 is for the short stout woman, heavy abdomen; No. 319 is for the stout woman of medium height, flesh evenly distributed; and No. 321 is for taller stout figures. All Ego-Shape models, that fit without alteration—$3.00.

GABY DESLYS NOTE ON SUICIDE'S DESK

Philadelphia, March 10.—A letter to Gaby Deslys along the edge of which were pasted twelve seat checks to "Stop, Look and Listen," was on the desk of Arthur L. Jackson, medical student, when he killed himself by gas. The letter read:

"Memories of those enjoyable times that come into a man's life, but are too pleasant to dream of being repeated, but which I am too loath to forget. To forget the past would be to forget one's heart's desire.

"ARTHUR."

The police do not believe Jackson knew the actress. He was a sophomore at the Jefferson Medical College.

Name Schooner Jerome Jones.

The five-masted schooner now building at the shipyard of Gardiner G. Deering, in Bath, Me., for Boston parties, is to be named for Jerome Jones, Boston merchant.

PUT STOMACH IN ORDER AND STOP GAS INDIGESTION

"Pape's Diapepsin" regulates disordered stomachs in five minutes.

No more dyspepsia, sourness, heartburn, pain, belching, or acidity.

Nothing will remain undigested or sour on your stomach if you will take a little Diapepsin occasionally. This powerful digestive and antacid, though as harmless and pleasant as candy, will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you can eat.

Eat what your stomach craves without the slightest fear of indigestion or that you will be bothered with acidity or sour risings, belching, gas on stomach, heartburn, headaches from stomach, nausea, bad breath, water brash or a feeling like you had swallowed a lump of lead, or other disagreeable miseries. Should you be suffering now from any stomach disorder you can get relief within five minutes.

If you will get from your pharmacist a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin you could always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and your meals would taste good, because you would know there would be no indigestion or sleepless nights or headache or stomach misery all the next day; and, besides, you would not need laxatives or liver pills to keep your stomach and bowels clean and fresh.

Pape's Diapepsin can be obtained from your druggist, and contains more than sufficient to thoroughly overcome the worst case of indigestion or dyspepsia. There is nothing better for gas on the stomach or sour odors from the stomach or to cure a stomach headache.

You couldn't keep a handier or more useful article in the house.—Advertisement.

SEEK YOUTH WHO ATTACKED GIRL IN LAWRENCE

Lawrence, March 10.—The police of Lawrence, Lowell and Andover are today seeking the twenty-year-old youth who, at the point of a revolver, attacked Zelda Johnston, a sixteen-year-old senior in the local high school, as she was passing a lonely section of Andover street, on the way to her home, No. 16 Ballard road, Wednesday afternoon.

The attack took place about 1:30 o'clock, soon after the girl had alighted from a Beacon street car. Her home is but a few hundred yards from the entrance to a field where the youth attacked her from behind. He threw her into the snow and tore her clothing. Threatening her with a revolver, he then fled through a nearby field and escaped.

With his departure the girl struggled to her home in a frightened condition where she related the story of the attack to her mother. The police were at once informed and the neighborhood aroused, but the young man had meantime made good his escape.

He started in the direction of Andover and Lowell, where the police were asked to watch for him.

The attack was one of the boldest ever reported in this city, for although the scene was a lonely one, the homes of Police Officer Frank Richardson and of the girl's parents are nearby.

The police arrested one suspect, who was released when the girl stated he was not the man.

It is believed the youth escaped by crossing the river, which is frozen, walking down to the north or south bank and boarding a car for Lowell.

BREAK A CHILD'S COLD BY GIVING SYRUP OF FIGS

Look, Mother! Is tongue coated, breath feverish and stomach sour?

Cleanse the little liver and bowels and they get well quickly.

When your child suffers from a cold don't wait; give the little stomach, liver and bowels a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

If your child coughs, snuffles and has caught cold or is feverish or has a sore throat give a good dose of "California Syrup of Figs," to evacuate the bowels, no difference what other treatment is given.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."—Advertisement.

How to stop dandruff and loss of hair with Resinol

Here is a simple, inexpensive treatment that will almost always stop dandruff and scalp itching, and keep the hair thick, live and lustrous:

At night, spread the hair apart and rub a little Resinol Ointment into the scalp gently, with the tip of the finger. Repeat this until the whole scalp has been treated. Next morning, shampoo thoroughly with Resinol Soap and hot water. Work the creamy Resinol lather well into the scalp. Rinse with gradually cooler water, the last water being cold.

Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment easily heal eczema and similar skin-eruptions. Sold by all druggists.

SAFETY LEAGUE HAS UNIFORM TRAFFIC CODE

The Highway Safety League issued today a compact pamphlet entitled "Uniform Traffic Code for Cities and Towns in Massachusetts."

While the code applies to every vehicle on wheels, except trolley cars and baby carriages, it obviously has special reference to the constantly increasing number of automobiles.

In a brief introduction Secretary Lawrence G. Brooks of the league says that the code has been drafted "in response to the suggestion of various officials throughout the Commonwealth for the purpose of creating a uniformity of traffic regulation which will promote convenience and safety on the highway. The smallest town will find some sections unnecessary. The largest cities may wish to add a section or two. Otherwise the code as it stands is applicable to every city and town in the Commonwealth."

The code is as follows:

ARTICLE I.

Vehicles in Motion.

Section 1. A vehicle meeting another vehicle shall pass to the right.

Section 2. A vehicle overtaking another vehicle shall, in passing, keep to the left.

Section 3. Whenever there is not an unobstructed view of the road for at least 100 yards, the driver of every vehicle shall keep the same on the right of the middle of the traveled part of the way whenever it is safe and practicable so to do.

Section 4. Subject to Section 3 fast moving vehicles, except when overtaken by faster vehicles (to which they shall give way), shall keep away from the right-hand curb and as near as possible to the centre of the traveled part of the way.

Section 5. Slow-moving vehicles shall keep as close as possible to the right-hand curb.

Section 6. On a highway divided longitudinally by a parkway, reserved space for street railway cars, viaduct, walk, sunken way, subway or other structure or obstacle, vehicles shall keep to the right of such division.

Section 7. A vehicle proceeding on the street car tracks shall turn out when signalled to do so by the motorman or conductor of an approaching street car.

Section 8. A vehicle when turning to the right into another street shall slow down and keep as near to the right-hand curb as possible.

Section 9. A vehicle in turning to the left into another street shall slow down and pass to the right of and beyond the centre of the intersecting streets before turning.

Section 10. Vehicles crossing from one side of the street to the other except for the purpose of passing other vehicles or because of dangers in the street, shall do so by turning to the left so as to head in the general direction of traffic after they have crossed the street.

Section 11. No person having charge of a vehicle shall allow the same to come within ten feet of any vehicle in front of him when approaching and passing over a crossing where a pedestrian is about to pass.

Section 12. No person shall ride, drive or cause to be driven any horse or vehicle over that part of any street which is being mended, repaired or paved if a watchman or signs are placed prohibiting the same.

Section 13. No person shall steal a ride on any vehicle.

ARTICLE II.

Vehicles Stopped, Standing and Turning.

Section 1. No vehicle shall stop with its left side to the curb except in one way streets.

Section 2. All vehicles stopping in the business section must stand near to and parallel with the right-hand curb unless it is necessary for the purpose of loading or unloading said vehicle to back up to the curb. In one way streets vehicles may similarly stop near to and parallel with the left-hand curb.

Section 3. No vehicle shall remain backed up to the curb except when actually loading and unloading, and the horse thereof, if it be a horse-drawn vehicle, shall be turned in the direction of traffic and parallel with the curb.

Section 4. Unless in an emergency or to allow another vehicle or a pedestrian to cross its way, no vehicle shall stop in any public street except close to the curb.

Section 5. No vehicle shall stop in such a way as to obstruct any street or crossing or within 10 feet of a fire hydrant, street corner or pole stop, except in case of emergency or when directed to do so by a police officer.

Section 6. A vehicle waiting at the curb shall promptly give place to a vehicle about to let on or take off passengers.

Section 7. No horse shall be left unattended in any street or highway unless securely fastened by being tied to a post or weight or unless the wheels of the vehicle to which he is harnessed are securely tied, fastened or chained.

Section 8. No horse or vehicle shall be allowed to stand or be driven on any sidewalk except when crossing the same.

ARTICLE III.

Signals.

Section 1. Every driver of a vehicle shall in slowing up or stopping give a signal to those behind by conspicuously raising a whip or hand.

Section 2. In turning while in motion or in starting to turn from a standstill a signal shall be give by the driver of the vehicle about to turn by conspicuously raising a whip or hand indicating the direction in which the turn is to be made.

Section 3. The driver or person in charge of any vehicle before turning the corner of any street or turning out or starting from or stopping at the curb shall first see that there is sufficient space free from other vehicles or objects so that such turn, stop or start may be safely made.

Section 4. Before backing any vehicle the driver or person in charge shall see that the way is clear and shall give adequate warning and shall, while backing, exercise the greatest vigilance to prevent accidents.

Section 5. The driver of a vehicle shall at all times obey the signals of a police officer.

ARTICLE IV.

Pedestrians.

Section 1. At crossings or street intersections where police officers are stationed in the business districts, pedestrians must stop when directed to do so by a police officer or mechanical device for the purpose of aiding traffic.

Section 2. In the thickly settled districts pedestrians are urged to cross the highway on a crosswalk; where none such exists to cross the highway at right angles preferably at a street intersection.

ARTICLE V.

Right of Way.

Section 1. Police, fire department, emergency repair wagons, United States mail vehicles and ambulances shall have the right of way in any street and through any procession.

ARTICLE VI.

Care in Driving.

Section 1. The driver of a horse or vehicle shall so guide the same as not to run into or over any person who is boarding or alighting from a stationary street car or who is attempting to board such car or who, having alighted therefrom, is duly proceeding to a place of safety.

Section 2. No driver of a vehicle shall run into or over any person who may be in a properly designated safety zone or upon a crosswalk.

Section 3. No person shall drive or conduct any vehicle in such manner or in such condition or so constructed or so loaded as to be likely to cause delay to other vehicles or accident or injury to man, beast or property.

Section 4. No person shall so load a vehicle with iron or other material that may strike together without properly deadening it so that it will cause no unnecessary noise.

Section 5. No person shall crack or so use a whip as to annoy, interfere with or endanger any person or excite any horse other than that which he is using.

Section 6. The operator of a motor vehicle shall under no circumstances cut out the muffler while on any highway within the city (town) limits.

ARTICLE VII.

Definitions.

Section 1. The word "vehicle" herein shall include horses hitched to vehicles, horses ridden or led, motor vehicles of all kinds, bicycles, tricycles, propelled by hand, and everything on wheels or runners except street cars and light carriages for the conveyance of children.

Section 2. The word "horse" herein shall include all domestic animals.

Section 3. The word "driver" herein shall include the rider or driver of a horse, the rider of wheels and the operator of a motor vehicle.

ARTICLE VIII.

Penalties.

Section 1. Whoever violates any of the provisions of the foregoing rules and regulations shall be punished by a fine not exceeding twenty dollars ($20) for each offence.

Boy, Page Hubby at Happy Twenty Ball up to 4 a. m.

"Happy" dropped in today; "Happy" of the Happy Twenty; "Happy" the Newsboy Magnate.

"Well, Hap?"

"Well, nothing!" said "Happy," "this publicity stuff is all to the cheese!"

"For instance?"

"Never mind that for instance stuff," said "Happy," "but stick a piece in today's paper to call special attention to the fact that the cabaret connected with tonight's 'Happy Twenty' ball, in Convention Hall, will last until 4 O'CLOCK TOMORROW MORNING. Put it in big letters."

"What's the fuss?" "Happy" was asked.

"Sophie Bennett," said Happy.

"Your lady?"

"What's that?"

"Miss Bennett going with you?"

"Cut that stuff," said "Happy." "Sophie's a queen; a little lady. She sings at one of the restaurants."

"And?"

"Well, her cabaret is open until 11 and if the regulars there get the idea that Sophie is to be away for the evening they may not drop around there. So make it plain that our cabaret, in the big hall down stairs, does not start until 10 o'clock. Once it gets going, though, it runs until 4 o'clock in the morning.

"Same with Helen Roberts, who sings at another cabaret."

"We'll have 2,500 people there. Lieutenant-Governor Cushing and former Lieutenant-Governor 'Ned' Barry were with us last year, besides Secretary of State Langtry and other notables. Tonight we hope to entertain Mayor Curley and other prominent men:

"We'll have Alexander's band with us. The concert will last from 8 until 9 o'clock. Then there'll be dancing until 2, and the cabaret, starting at 10, will continue until 4.

"Billy Glason, Esther Ray, Billy Murray, Sophie Bennett, Della Tuttle, the Feist Entertainers, Abel Baer, Victor Viverios, Jack Ewatt, Zarita, and Helen Roberts are a few of our entertainers.

"We expect to entertain the whole town!"

So, ladies, if HE isn't in by 1 in the morning, if that be the Rule, call Back Bay 21447—that's the Convention Hall number—and perhaps they'll page him for you.

Soft Collar Is Disrespectful, Prof. Taft Says

Court styles in dress was the subject of a lecture by Former President Taft to future lawyers at the Boston University Law School.

Soft collars show disrespect for the court, in the opinion of Professor Taft. Other sartorial evidences of disrespect include, in his way of thinking, loud neckties, checked suits, coat belts and jaunty patterns of clothing.

Such things, he said, show the drift of American life toward that which should not be. Rakishly-worn hats and cigars are further manifestations, he said, of a "spirit of indignity."

WOMEN DECLARE SUGAR BOYCOTT

Cincinnati, March 10.—The National Housewives' Co-operative League have declared a boycott on sugar and sent out communications to all branches of the league as well as to other women's societies urging co-operation in this movement. The league claims that housewives use 90 per cent. of the sugar consumed in the United States and object to the higher price they now have to pay for it.

GROWTH IN SOCIETY TO SAVE CHILDREN

Grafton D. Cushing, president of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, in the society's thirty-fifth annual report issued today, calls attention to the fact that eighteen branches are now carrying on the organized work outside of Greater Boston. In 1908 but six agents were employed, while today there are over thirty.

FRANKLIN STRIKE SHUTS DOWN PLANT

Franklin, March 10.—The American Felt Company plant at South Franklin has closed, as the result of a strike of about twenty-five employes of the fulling department, who went out Wednesday upon the refusal of the company to grant them an increase of $1 a week. The plant is one of seven owned by the company in Massachusetts and New York.

ZUPPA EXECUTED AT WETHERSFIELD

Hartford, Ct., March 10.—Pasquale Zuppa, twenty-seven, was hanged at the Wethersfield State prison early today for beating to death Antonio Corsi, whom he robbed of $1.25 in Guilford on Labor Day. The execution occupied only eleven minutes, establishing a record for the Connecticut prison. Shortly before his death Zuppa expressed penitence for what he termed his "misfortune."

DEALERS SEEK CHANGES IN EGG TEST

A delegation from the Boston Fruit and Produce Exchange appeared before Mayor Curley today, to protest against the present strict manner in which the Cassidy egg law is being enforced by the Health Department of the city of Boston. The Cassidy law was placed on the statute books through the work of the Boston AMERICAN, and prohibits the sale of rotten eggs. It was admitted that the professional dealer in "rots" and spots" has been driven out of business by the law.

The delegation was composed of the egg committee of the exchange, and was headed by President Raymond F. Alley and Secretary Alton E. Briggs. The committee objected to the city health inspectors claiming to be egg experts. They demanded that an egg candler be taken from one of the egg dealers to pass upon rotten eggs.

"We admit the professional dealer in rots and spots has been driven out of business by the Cassidy law," said President Alley, "but we don't want to drive the dealer in cracked eggs out of business. Cracked eggs are wholesome food. Instead of a theorist, we want a practical egg man to pass upon eggs."

"We are here to see that the man who buys fresh eggs does not get rotten eggs," said the Mayor. He suggested that the federal government be requested to detail an egg expert to assist the city health inspectors, to which suggestion the delegation agreed.

The matter was brought to a head by the seizure of five cases of eggs from Adams, Chapman & Co. W. F. Wiltshire, of the firm, claimed the eggs were good, and criticised the city authorities.

ROOSEVELT MEN TO MEET HERE MONDAY

The Roosevelt-for-President delegates in this State will meet in Boston Monday to decide whether they shall remain in the field despite Mr. Roosevelt's request for them to abandon the campaign.

Grafton D. Cushing and Campaign Manager W. W. Lufkin today issued a call for the meeting to be at the City Club at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon.

"We have a list of very strong delegates pledged to Mr. Roosevelt in every district in this State," said Mr. Cushing. "And at this meeting they will decide for themselves whether they shall run as delegates.

"We at first thought that we should enter the primaries as candidates for the Republican convention, but Mr. Roosevelt's request to prevent a factional fight is so urgent that the delegates doubtlessly will heed it."

"Does this mean that the contest in the State will be entirely abandoned?" Mr. Cushing was asked.

"By no means," he replied. "Public sentiment is turning to Mr. Roosevelt very strongly, and whether we remain in the field or not we shall continue to encourage this sentiment."

Mr. Cushing said that Mr. Roosevelt's statement left the impression that his sole desire is to oust the present "vacillating" administration and that he would accept the Republican presidential nomination only if he received the practically unanimous call of the Republican party.

"This is the year for the people to draft their own candidate," said Mr. Cushing. "We are facing the four most critical years in the history of our country, and I feel that the people want a man of Mr. Roosevelt's strength at the helm."

Politicians figured today that Mr. Roosevelt's statement left him stronger in this State than if he had assented to the use of his name on the ballot.

Even the Old Guard delegates, who desire to go unpledged to Chicago, have stated that they will vote for the man who seems strongest. Henry Cabot Lodge, one of this Big Four group, is generally conceded to be warm in his support of Mr. Roosevelt.

QUIT MEAT WHEN BACK HURTS OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Says Uric Acid in meat clogs Kidneys and irritates Bladder.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that meat forms uric acid, which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back, or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

RUB RHEUMATIC ACHING JOINTS AND STOP PAIN

Instant relief with a small trial bottle of old "St. Jacob's Oil."

Rheumatism is "pain" only.

Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Stop drugging! Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil" right into your sore, stiff, aching joints, and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacob's Oil" is a harmless rheumatism liniment which never disappoints and cannot burn the skin.

Limber up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacob's Oil" at any drug store, and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic pain, soreness and stiffness. Don't suffer! Relief awaits you! "St. Jacob's Oil" is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, sprains.—Advertisement.

Farewell Party to Lavelle by Newspapermen

"Good bye, good luck, God bless you."

This line in the feature song by Miss Louise Mack, soprano soloist, at the farewell dinner to Thomas D. Lavelle, just retired as assistant district-attorney for Suffolk County, expressed as aptly as if the song were specially written for the occasion, the sentiments of the thirty newspapermen gathered at the Crawford House last night.

Court and police reporters and general staff men from every Boston newspaper were there to wish Mr. Lavelle success in private practice and to extoll his six years service as first assistant country prosecutor.

Frederick M. J. Sheehan, lawyer and newspaperman, acted as toastmaster. Speeches were made by Weston F. Hutchins, "Eddie" Martin, "Ted" Finn, William Howard McShane, Ernest Hill, T. P. Harrison, "Len" Libby and others.

FIREBUG HUNT ON AT NORTH ATTLEBORO

North Attleboro, March 10—The Kendall block on Washington street here was destroyed by fire early today.

The police believe the fire was incendiary, and have begun an investigation of a report that threats had been made against a tenant of the building.

The fire officials set the loss at $50,000. Fire a month ago did $20,000 damage to the building.

Five firemen were injured by flying fragments when the roof of the building fell in today. Fireman Charles McGuire is in the hospital. It is feared his skull is fractured.

500 GARMENT MAKERS STRIKE IN WORCESTER

Worcester, March 10.—About 500 garment workers went on strike at 11 o'clock today at half the shops in this city, because of the refusal of employers to grant demands.

Seven shops are affected, including the Worcester Muslin Company and D. Schultz & Co., the two largest in the city. Strike leaders say more than 900 are enrolled in the union, and that a large number failed to go to work at all today.

The employes demanded a 50-hour week in Winter, a 47-hour week in Summer, a minimum wage of $5 for beginners, a wage scale to be adjusted by a joint committee, and more sanitary working conditions.

Unprecedented Motor Show Sales Climb to New High Water Mark

BIG EXHIBITION'S CLOSING DAYS ATTRACT RECORD ATTENDANCE

By J. C. KERRISON.

Today is next to the last day of Boston's fourteenth annual Automobile Show, at the Mechanics Building. Large crowds featured the show today, even larger than yesterday.

The crowds today packed the big exhibition halls, and many of the great throngs were seeing the show for the second time. These return visitors to the exhibition made the most of their chances for another study of the great automobile exhibits.

To see the show more than once is not only enjoyment of the highest sort to the auto enthusiasts, whose name is legion in New England, but it is a distinct advantage.

The sales so far recorded have surpassed any previous automobile show in the country, bar none, and the dealers, New England distributors and the factory men are loud in their praise of the show, asserting that it is the most successful ever held in the country. Several of the exhibitors have sold more than 100 cars since the opening of the show last Saturday, and with still two big days to go, believe they will not only break all exhibit records, and double, if not triple some of them.

The accessory dealers, too, have had a good week. Many of them have been making record sales so far, and have had to replenish the stock in their booths. The accessory dealers are numerous, and line the big balconies of the exhibition halls.

How Thin People Can Put On Flesh

Thin men and women—that big, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are probably sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and funny sawdust diets. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating and eat with every one of those a single Sargol tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Let the scales be the judge. Five to eight good solid pounds of healthy, "stay-there" fat may be the net result. Sargol aims to charge weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh new red blood corpuscles—to give the blood the carrying power to deliver every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Sargol, too, mixes with your food, to prepare it for the blood in an easily assimilated form. Thin people tell how they have gained all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Sargol and say that the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a careful combination of six of the best assimilative elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive, and all good druggists in this vicinity sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back as found in every large package.

SCALES ON SCALP HAIR CAME OUT

Also Had Dandruff. Would Itch and Burn. Intense Itching of Rash On Hands and Arms.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"There were scales and dandruff on my scalp and my hair came out gradually and was thin and dry and lifeless. My scalp would itch and burn so I would have to get up in the night and scratch it. Then I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I was healed.

"I also used Cuticura Soap and Ointment for a rash which would come on my hands and arms. It would raise up and be very much like blisters. My hands and arms were very inflamed and if I scratched them the itching would be so intense that they were irritated and disfigured. I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in a week I was healed." (Signed) Mrs. J. D. Sowers, Hodgdon, Me., July 29, 1915.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is cheap and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Advertisement

THE VALUE OF TRUTH

Truth in business is just as important as truth in every-day life; truth creates confidence, establishes good-will and builds a reliability that will not be wrecked by the storms of competition.

For forty years people have learned to rely upon the advertised words of Scott's Emulsion, because they are untarnished, unexaggerated truisms about a household remedy of real and actual worth.

The popularity of Scott's Emulsion is constantly increasing, because it guarantees pure cod liver oil with glycerine and hypophosphites to build strength, improve the blood and strengthen the lungs. It is free from alcohol or opiates—a wholesome food-tonic, truthfully advertised.

Motor Show Notes

J. W. Hall, general sales manager of the Oldsmobile, with headquarters at Lansing, Mich., in his flying visit to the Boston Auto Show paid a tribute to the exhibition. He said:

"Its the best show I have visited this year. There is more real business in sight than I saw at any other show this year. The decorations of the building made a big hit."

"Hall is a student of art and architecture. He said that his visit here more than repaid him. He spoke at the Oldsmobile dealers' dinner and impressed them with his views of the show.

The Victor Motor Car Company, New England agents for the Menominee trucks, reports a brisk demand for the commercial car. They have made many sales to furniture movers and duplicates of the display car have been sold to many.

* * *

The Auto Show stag was held at Convention Hall last night and was a huge success from every standpoint. There was a big crowd present and all had a royal good time. The committee provided a splendid program. The entertainment held in Convention Hall proper started shortly after eleven and everybody enjoyed it.

A step further than that taken by most motor car manufacturers is that of the Westcott Car Company in the way of providing adjustments to fit any driver. This feature is attracting attention at the Westcott space where the cars are being shown by the local distributors, the Bishop Motor Sales Company of No. 885 Boylston street. On the Westcott cars a five-inch adjustment is provided in the steering column in addition to a similar adjustment on the two control pedals. This plan, in the opinion of George S. Bishop, is superior to the movable seat arrangement, which is intended to cope with the same situation.

A report issued from the factory of the Saxon Motor Car Company in Detroit shows that the shipments of Saxons for the month ending February 29th were 2231 cars. This is an increase of 1387 cars, or 164.3% over shipments of the corresponding month of last year. The shipments for February, a short month, were, with the exception of those for June, 1915, larger than for any month since the inception of the company.

"I am for 'preparedness,' at least as far as it relates to motor cars," said A. H. Sowers of the Jackson Company. "In my humble judgment the man who drives a car ought always to be prepared. And it is my experience that the man who is prepared is rarely bothered with the little annoying motor devils that cause so much trouble.

"Preparedness to me means having plenty of gasoline in the tank; plenty of oil; clean spark plugs; ample water in the radiator; grease cups screwed down tight; oil at every bearing surface; tires properly inflated; a spare tire ready for action; a full tool equipment; battery in good order and properly looked after."

Among the visitors at the Automobile Show were R. C. Getsinger, sales manager, and R. N. Harger, advertising manager, of the Saxon Motor Car Company. Arriving in Boston on Monday, they immediately went into executive session with the Hawley-Cowan Company. By dint of insisting on it, Messrs. Hawley and Cowan secured promises to increase their allotment of Saxon cars for Boston. After taking the officials from the Detroit factory through the show, Mr. Hawley took them for a trip through the automobile section of Boston, unfolding on the way his plans for future development of the Saxon business in the territory controlled by the Hawley-Cowan Company. The officials praised the auto show in the highest terms.

Sales Manager John M. Mansfield, of the Dort Company, has closed negotiations whereby the Longley Motor Sales Company of Providence become the New England distributors for the Dort line of cars.

NEW OLDSMOBILE ROADSTER UNIQUE

Among the innovations seen at the show is the Oldsmobile roadster, which has virtually the capacity of a touring car, five passengers being seated comfortably in emergencies.

The front seat is designed to carry three passengers, and the car has an overflow capacity of two passengers, having an extra large luggage compartment covered by a pair of hinged doors, which, when opened up, transform the rear section into two well upholstered seats which are quite commodious and far from being in the least uncomfortable.

ENTERTAINS 100 CADILLAC DEALERS

Albion L. Danforth, the manager of the Boston Cadillac Company, yesterday entertained 100 of the Cadillac dealers in this territory, the occasion having a two-fold purpose; first, a dinner in honor of F. S. Bennett, the Cadillac dealer in London, England, and the second, a get-together meeting of Cadillac dealers. General Sales Manager Howard and Assistant General Sales Manager L. McNaughton of the factory and New England District Manager Charles B. Chandler were among the guests, and each had some interesting information to impart to the meeting.

VICE-PRESIDENT PAUL SMITH of the Chalmers Motors, who made a stirring address to the Chalmers dealers at their dinner yesterday.

150 DEALERS AT CHALMERS BANQUET

A real get-together meeting was the luncheon given by the Chalmers Company at the Hotel Lenox yesterday afternoon. Dealers from all over this territory to the number of 150 or more had the pleasure of personally meeting President O. L. Halsey of the Chalmers Company of New England and the leading factory officials, including Vice-President Paul Smith, Sales Manager Drumpelmann, Advertising Manager Gail Murphy, Foreign Representative Thomas Kierker and Advertising Expert N. H. Van Patten of the Cheltenham Press.

This occasion permitted the dealer to get closer to the factory personnel and to meet face to face the men who plan the Chalmers campaign—the men who are constantly doing their utmost to keep the famous Chalmers product at the front rank of the motor industry. This was the first time President Halsey has had an opportunity of meeting his New England dealers in a body, and the reception he received following his presentation by Frank Allen, who acted as toastmaster, was conclusive proof of his popularity. Mr. Halsey impressed his dealers with his business sincerity and his absolute confidence in the proposition he is selling.

Vice-President Paul Smith, who has just returned from a trip through the United States, told of the prosperity which this country is enjoying and spoke interestingly of the great work that is being done by the Chalmers organization, whose factory last month turned out 2,371 cars and which is working twenty-four hours a day. The other distinguished guests, together with F. S. Sumner and Fred Markee, who are in the wholesale department of the local company, all had a message to deliver to the agents.

PEERLESS CAR A BIG FEATURE AT SHOW

Sales Manager Schumk of the Peerless Motor Car Company, a former Boston boy, is "doing the show," and feels quite at home. He is an old show attendant and knows what a Boston show means. He and Manager John L. Snow of the Beacon Motors Company, the New England distributors for the Peerless, are confident from what they have seen at this exhibit that the home company made no mistake when it determined this year to carry but one model.

The high quality, both in mechanical and body construction, is of such a character as to appeal to experienced owners who desire the best obtainable in a motor car. The development of the "eight" has made it possible for this company to concentrate on a single chassis and its experience in body constructions was of such a character as to permit it to produce the very best obtainable in roadster, touring and closed cars, samples of which constantly attract the attention of visitors at the show.

VERSATILITY MARKS VELIE PRODUCTIONS

"The Velie Motor Vehicle Company of Moline, Ill., display versatility by building a line of chassis complete for every purpose. Touring car, motor truck, fire car and hearse all find their place in the production of that enormous factory. In fact, it is quite impossible for one to develop a use for motor equipment which cannot be supplied by the producers of the famous Velie 'Biltwel' line," says J. W. Bowman, the local distributor.

"The model 2, a $1065 six-cylinder car, is the latest Velie built for general use. This car is a full-sized automobile up to Velie quality in every respect and in great demand. On the other hand, one recent motor-driven novelty was a church, complete with altar, organ and other paraphernalia, built on a Velie commercial car chassis and used for spreading the gospel in territories not yet touched by the railroad."

The Metz light delivery wagon is making its first appearance at a Boston Auto Show. The Metz Company of Waltham first began marketing these cars last Fall and in the short space of time between their first appearance and now they have become very familiar figures in the commercial world. There is an open express body, [illegible] delivery wagon intended for grocers' use with open body and top, and [illegible] partment store type delivery wagon with an inclosed body.

All of these types sell at a popular price and they are meeting with a very cordial reception from buyers who appreciate a smart light car for quick transportation of merchandise. The wheel base of these cars is 108 inches, making them very handy for city traffic, and the power plant is identical with the touring car, which has proven its worth in speed contests and long distance touring contests.

"Each nurse carries with her a full sample outfit for a newly born child, [illegible] able to advise young mothers as to price and quality. They also direct mothers to the best places to purchase such outfits."

Miss Beard impressed upon her listeners that the Instructive District Nursing Association is not primarily a charity, but stands ready to help women who cannot afford to pay. On the other hand, she stated distinctly that fees, however small, were welcome.

"In January we collected $700 toward our expenses. What well-to-do patients pay helps to make it possible for us to do more for those who cannot pay.

"We accept all kinds of cases except diphtheria, smallpox and scarlet fever. It is stated by those who have made a careful investigation of district nursing [illegible] about the United States that the work of these organizations has brought down the death rate at least 15½ per cent.

MOTHER MOANS FOR CHILDREN SHE KIDNAPED

Worcester, March 10.—Mrs. Minnie H. Storey arrived at the Union railroad station today in a hysterical condition after being brought from Newcastle, Ind., by Detective William H. Brady of the Worcester police, on a charge of kidnapping her two children here on Feb. 25.

The children were brought back on the same train by their father, Frank C. Storey, of No. 125 Main street, who had accompanied Detective Brady to Indiana.

Mrs. Storey was calm through nearly all the long journey eastward. She sat with the detective in one part of a car, while Mr. Storey had a seat at the other end of the car. The children divided their time between the parents.

But when the train was within twenty miles of Worcester and the mother realized that she was to be separated from the children, she became agitated, then hysterical. When Detective Brady led her off the train here she sobbed bitterly, screamed for the children and attracted a crowd of wondering spectators. The detectives hurried her through the waiting room and put her in a taxicab.

She cried and screamed all the way to police headquarters. After she was booked on the kidnaping charge she was locked in one of the women's cells. She threw herself on the bed in condition bordering on convulsions. She moaned for the children and cried unceasingly.

If she is in condition tomorrow morning to appear in court she will be arraigned before Judge Utley.

Last May Mr. Storey obtained a divorce on the ground of desertion. He was awarded custody of the children, Ralph, aged nine, and Dorothy, eleven.

Mrs. Storey has been away from Worcester for a year. The police say she has been in Seattle, Wash.; Joplin, Mo., and finally in Newcastle, Ind.

Two weeks ago the children disappeared. They had obtained their father's permission to go to the Sunday School party after school. They did not return home. Mr. Storey went to the police.

The children attended the Thomas Grammar School. The police found that, a few days before they disappeared, a note had been sent in to one of them at school by a man. This man had also been seen giving candy to them.

The police say that they learned that Mrs. Storey had come to Worcester and had later left with the children, buying railroad tickets for Newcastle.

It was reported that the police were in touch with the man who sent the note to the children and that they gained information from him.

The Newcastle trail was followed. Detective Brady and the father found the mother and children there and brought them here.

Kidney Trouble Causes Sleeplessness, Dizzy Spells

I have great confidence in your medicine, called Swamp-Root, as I have tested it thoroughly. I had Kidney trouble for several years and found no relief, until I took Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. The doctor said my disease was Kidney trouble of the worst kind. I had pains in my back, dizzy spells and fever. Had a languid feeling and could not sleep on account of having to urinate so often. The doctors told me that I could not get well, but I am well now and feel better than I ever did. Can sleep well and am not bothered any more with my kidneys. Have never taken a dose of medicine since the last bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. My age is 55 years. Have resided in Darlington 20 years.

Yours very truly,
W. A. LEE,
400 W. Broad St. Darlington, S. C.

Personally appeared before me this 8th day of June, 1914, W. A. Lee, who subscribed to the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

P. T. WARR, Magistrate,
Darlington County

Letter to
Dr. Kilmer & Co.,

Prove What Swamp-Root Will Do For You

Send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample size bottle. It will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling about the kidneys and bladder. When writing, be sure and mention the Boston Daily American. Regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

BRANDEIS WINS COMMITTEE, 4 TO 1

Washington, March 10.—The subcommittee of the committee on the judiciary of the Senate which has been investigating the Brandeis case apparently stands four to one in favor of a favorable report on nomination. Senator Cummins, it is learned, is favorable to a report to the full committee recommending the confirmation of Attorney Brandeis.

What Causes Tuberculosis

In the opinion of many medical authorities, tuberculosis is aided, if not actually caused, by a loss of lime from the system. "Where there is a decalcification, the lime salts must be supplied medicinally," says Dr. J. W. Carhart, of San Antonio, in the May, 1913, issue of "Medical Progress."

To supply these salts often is difficult, since in some forms they are not easily assimilable.

In Eckman's Alterative, however, calcium (lime) is so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be assimilated by the average person and to this, in part, is due its success.

We make no boastful claims, but many cases of tuberculosis apparently have yielded to it. It contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so is safe to try. Sold by all Riker Drug Stores and leading druggists.

BLANCHE BATES TALKS.

Under the personal supervision of President Daniel Frohman, as aforesaid, the performance was under the auspices of these Boston managers: John Craig, M. Douglas Flattery, Thomas B. Lothian, George Magee, Victor J. Morris, Richard Newman, Charles J. Rich, Ralph Ripley, John B. Schoeffel, Albert M. Sheehan, Edward D. Smith, Charles Waldron, A. L. Wilbur and Fred E. Wright. Mr. Lothian was the business manager and Harry N. Farren the [illegible] of transportation." Lawrence McCarty, of old Boston Theatre fame, was the stage manager par excellence.

The "Heart-to-Heart Talk With Women," by Miss Blanche Bates, now Mrs. George Creel and the mother of a "perfectly wonderful" girl and a "marvelous" boy—was the surprise of the day.

Mrs. Creel, delivering a plea for the Theatre and its ideals, [illegible] her sisters to abandon [illegible] them not to [illegible] being Big Women, or [illegible] righting wrongs, and declared that the happiest, and at the same time most useful, of American women are those who are "just women." It was not a suffrage speech, nor was it "at [illegible]" exactly—but it won the applause of the afternoon.

BOSTON ALUMNI OF MIDDLEBURY DINE

The annual dinner of the Boston alumni of Middlebury College of Vermont was held at the Vendome. A reception was given at 6 o'clock and dinner was served at 7. President John Martin Thomas of the college and Dr. D. W. Abercrombie, principal of Worcester Academy, gave short talks, and the college quartet sang. Harry Lake, '93, was master of ceremonies. Middlebury College is the oldest in Vermont and is a progressive institution. In September the Hepburn Dormitory for men, costing $150,000 and now being completed, will be opened. The Mead Memorial Chapel, costing $60,000, will also be opened.

BELLBOY STABS HIS CHUM IN SCUFFLE

Worcester, March 10.—[illegible] Kanavan of Russell street is on the dangerous list at City Hospital from the effects of a stab wound accidentally inflicted by Chester E. Laroche, of Bradley street. Laroche had a nervous collapse following the accident.

The two boys are bellboys in the Bay State House, and both told the police that they were seated on a bench in the lobby. Laroche was sharpening a pencil and Kanavan began to scuffle with him and they slipped on the marble floor.

The knife in Laroche's hand pierced Kanavan's left leg just below the knee and opened the main artery. Both boys insist that the stabbing was an accident.

Lingerie, Luxury and British Morals

Elinor Glyn, in "The Career of Katherine Bush," which develops rapidly in the April Cosmopolitan, gives you in intimate detail the picture of one English girl's life.

And Elinor Glyn has the courage and the power to write so that you are actually in the room with the people of her story.

Every whiff of haunting perfume—every flutter of dainty lace—has the exaggerated value that it has in life, for a bit of ribbon has overthrown an Empire.

"The Career of Katherine Bush" is terribly real, terribly human; it gives you a picture of British smart social life that explains much.

Besides all of which—
It's enormously entertaining.

DIARY OF JESS WILLARD HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION

New York, Friday, March 10.

WHEN I awoke yesterday morning it struck me that it meant the start of the eleventh day of training. That seems quite some time to get in shape fo[illegible] bout which is over two weeks away. These thoughts were [illegible] my head as I started to dress and I decided that if everything [illegible] along as nicely as it has for the past two weeks, I would lay off a few days next week.

After I arrived at this decision Monahan and Hemple bounded into the room and we prepared for our morning workout. It was only a few minutes before we hit the path.

These dashes in the early morning I know are doing me as much good as all the work I do indoors. I don't mean that it benefits my eye as much as my boxing, but it strengthens my wind, which is as much importance in a bout as skill.

We stayed on the road for over an hour and had no folks annoy us. The three of us came home tearing like mad to work up a good perspiration. When you get the pores open and the system throwing off you are [illegible] to be healthy. And to add to that a good dry rub is necessary before you hop into the bathtub.

Jess' Recipe on How to Bathe Properly.

In bathing I prefer the tub to the shower. Not that the latter isn't good, but the old-fashioned style of stretching out in the tub suits me better. Many people neglect to dry their hair thoroughly before they venture in the open and this often causes a cold.

That old bromide of an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure strikes me as being one of the sanest ever coined.

After my tub and the usual massage all hands make a break for the breakfast table. For breakfast I enjoy nothing better than fruits that are in season. To me eating fruit is better in the long run than taking medicine. Meat is something which I taboo at breakfast. It is too heavy to digest when one is only up a short while.

When the morning meal was over I retired to my room to glance over the many letters that are wished on me daily. It is a scream to peruse these missives and find out how many different kind of people make up this big world. Suggestions how to defeat Moran, inside 'dope' on what blows to use and very inviting offers to subscribe to stock in almost every conceivable scheme ever created by mind of man.

Choynski's Statement Voted Ridiculous.

One of the most amusing and ridiculous stories I read to date was a statement of Joe Choynski. Choynski paid me the compliment of predicting I would defeat Moran. That was all right in a way, but as I don't think Choynski ever saw Moran or myself in a bout I can't see that his "dope" is based on anything but guesswork. The fact that the old-timer went so far as to swing the hammer on Moran and myself for not possessing what he calls "class" was, to say the least, rather startling.

The morning went by quickly and after a short lunch all hands packed into the machine and rolled down to the Pioneer Club. My exercises were no different than the usual program, but when the boxing came around I shifted to a higher gear. This can be vouched for by my sparring partners.

Yesterday was the first day I tried out my right uppercut, which is one of my most telling wallops, and it landed often and good enough to convince [illegible] was working properly. The three partners were under [illegible] and they did it well.

WILHOIT SURE TO STICK

Vernon Outfielder Off on Right Foot as a Brave—Evers Pickles Pill in Matinee.

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

MIAMI, Fla., March 10.—The Braves and Seminoles, led by Johnny Evers and Eddie Fitzpatrick, respectively, will clash once more at Tatum Park this afternoon.

This morning the boys had the customary limbering up workout and, under the fine sun, managed to work up a fine perspiration. The ride in on the car was without incident today. Yesterday afternoon the car ran over an explosive of some sort and left the rails, giving the players a big scare.

Fitzsimmons Picks Jess He's Best of a Bogus Lot

By BOB FITZSIMMONS,

Former Heavyweight Champion of the World, Now in Boston.

I FAIL to see where Frank Moran stands any sort of a chance with Jess Willard. The champion is too big a man for a fighter of the Moran type to conquer. When Frank starts his left hand swing, which goes about as slow as the proverbial old barn gate, Willard is very likely to consider the open space inviting and let his right hand drive.

There's little doubt of the fact that Willard is a good puncher. Several of my pupils have at various times been with the Champion since he annexed the title, and they all express the same opinion about the punch Jess carries in his right hand.

Willard is without a doubt, in my mind, the best white hope of today. He is bigger and stronger and can assimilate more punishment than any of the present crop masquerading as near-champions. Even with all that to the present Champion's credit he is a poor specimen of the championship calibre of bygone days.

Willard, with his great reach and 240 pounds of weight, which give him a wonderful natural advantage over all the present heavies, would look like a novice against the fighters who reigned in my time.

Corbett would have taken Big Jess into camp in about four rounds. Jim would delight to enter a ring with a man cut out in the Willard fashion and play with him for three or four rounds and then ask him where he wanted to drop. Willard would not be able to put a glove on Corbett.

Jeffries, in my opinion, would have had little trouble in stopping Jess. Jim was the most dangerous man that ever pulled on a glove. He would swing and maul his opponent, when he felt like getting exercise, and then would suddenly shoot a punch with either hand that would knock an elephant dead.

Of course, poor old Jim would have been an easy prey even for a man like Willard, at the time he was knocked out by Jack Johnson in Reno. From what I learned from several parties connected with Jeff's camp, old Jim did not know whether he was fighting or playing the piano that day.

Neither Frank Moran or Willard has a look-in when it comes to summing up the make of the old-timers. They do not possess the science, neither do they know how to deliver the K. O. punch. I have watched Willard train, and he surprised me when he went through the various stunts with his wonderful abundance of strength. But he fails to use his great asset when it comes to boxing.

Willard has never been taught how to punch and get away. When he starts a punch he always goes through with it, even if his better judgment tells him to draw back. Instead of shooting the punch from the shoulder, as Peter Jackson or Corbett in the old days, Willard often pulls his right hand waist high and then starts to deliver.

I witnessed the "Gunboat" Smith-Willard fight in the West a few years ago. It was the first time I ever saw the giant fight. At that time I did not believe he would ever rise to the top of the division, because he lacked the knowledge of the game.

Smith hit him at will, and, as a matter of fact, soon tired of smashing the giant. Jess took every punch with a smile and, when the fight was over, looked just as fresh as when it started, with the exception of a discolored left eye.

He can handle so much punishment I can hardly see where Moran has a chance, even if he should perform as he never did before. I don't believe there will be any knockout, but if there happens to be one I know it will be over Frank's body. Charley White, referee, will toll the count.

I have often watched Frank work out and have seen him fight several times. He's a good fighter, a strong man and can lick any white man in the world with the exception of Willard. But he's no match for Jess.

"I'LL EARN MY END." MORAN

Frank Shows Why He's Entitled to $23,750 for Meeting Willard; Says He Has Never Collected.

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 10.—Frank Moran, out at Dal Hawkins' road house, today said he thinks he will EARN his $23,750 for boxing Jess Willard. He has his reasons.

"I have been in the boxing game now for about seven years," said Moran. "Before my first bout with Jim Coffey, I boxed for what I could get—and sometimes I didn't get even that.

"Up to now I have received very little for what I gave. When I boxed Jack Johnson in Paris I received exactly nothing.

"I boxed the late Luther McCarthy in New York several years ago, and again received no money.

"There are thousands of boxers who have gone through the same sort of experiences, and their one goal is the championship of their particular division.

"When they reach it they begin to collect on the past. I started in just before the Coffey match to earn what was my due. All I get out of the Willard bout will be earned—every cent of it."

"About the impending fray," Moran said, "my condition is great and I feel fine. And I'm confident that I'm going to win.

"Boxing experts have credited me with ring generalship and sound ring [illegible] and poise. In this respect I'll have an advantage over Willard—a psychological advantage."

Moran put in another light day of training. He walked three miles with Willie Lewis, his trainer, in the morning and repeated in the afternoon.

SHUBERT ON WITH CAMPI

Bouncing Bantamweights Top B. M. A. A. Card—Down to Step 12 Rounds at 120-Lb. Notch.

B. M. A. A. BOXING CARD

Al Shubert, New Bedford, vs. Eddie Campi, California; twelve rounds, 120 pounds, ringside.

Dave Powers, Malden, vs. "Patsy" De Lucca, North End; eight rounds.

Harry Ah Chung, Salem, vs. Jimmy Kenny, Waltham; six rounds.

"Red" Kelley, Charlestown, vs. Frankie Barrett, Cambridge; six rounds.

Club location—Hibernian Hall, Roxbury; one block from Dudley street station.

Referee—Larry Conley.

Starting time—8 p. m.

AL SHUBERT, the sparkling little New Bedford ringster, and Eddie Campi, clearly the best bantamweight California has developed in late years, clash in the main melee at the B. M. A. A., Hibernian Hall, Roxbury, tonight.

They are to come in at 120 pounds, ringside—four pounds over the division's limit—and step the customary twelve rounds providing no kayo is introduced. It is clearly the best bantamweight battle staged in Boston since Jimmy Walsh started downhill, and the indications are it will be witnessed by just about the banner house of the season.

Shubert is New England's champion in the division. He came in at 116 pounds, ringside, for his great battle with Johnny Ertle in New Bedford Washington's Birthday, crossing the experts who doubted if he could as much as make that low notch, let alone be strong enough to show to advantage. Shubert gained a draw with the champion and that after losing the eleventh and twelfth rounds. Hence, truth it is he wasn't beaten.

In Campi, Shubert is meeting one of the trickiest and most resourceful boys his weight in the world. However, as the far Westerner is boxing at 122 pounds this Winter it is scarcely fair to enroll him with the sport's bantams. Still, Eddie won't come in any lighter. He insisted upon making that figure for "Mickey" Brown, the Malden musser, whom he hooked up with some six weeks ago, and refused to [illegible] for Shubert.

Campi has [illegible] the stars of the [illegible] He went the full Derby [illegible] with Kid Williams in [illegible] and has gained the verdict over Pete Herman, Frankie Burns [illegible] among other good boys.

Shubert's record is practically as brilliant. In some seventy or eighty [illegible] the New Bedford Bearcat has [illegible] single decision—to Pete Herman. It came at the end of a very busy twenty-round fuss down at New Orleans and Shubert was scarcely more than inches behind the native son at the final bell.

Patsy De Lucca and David Powers will again mingle in the eight-round semi-windup. It should be a boisterous bout. The six-rounders will be offered by Harry Ah Chung, the Salem Chinaman, and Jimmy Kenny, and "Red" Kelley and Frankie Barrett.

Rocque Views Victoria Game With Alarm

Three periods of the fastest hockey of the season will be served to the hockey public at the Arena tomorrow night, when the Victorias of Montreal play the Arena Hockey Club.

Although on one occasion three years ago three periods were played between the Pilgrims and the Sherbrooke team, this arrangement is something new to the Arena players of this year, but they were all eager to accept these conditions.

The fact that resubstitution will be allowed will be a big help to the Arena team, with its sixteen-player squad. That Coach Rocque views this game with alarm is shown by his eagerness to [illegible] of Dartmouth [illegible] in the forward [illegible]

RING REMARKS.

PHILADELPHIA wants Shubert to clash with Lew Tendler March 20; Woonsocket is out with an offer to Al to box Terry Martin, while New Bedford is trying to frame a Shubert-Pete Herman match. Manchester and Lawrence are also in with bids to Miller for Shubert's services.

JOE VARGUS of Cambridge stoutly denies that he fought Joe Gibbs in Woonsocket Tuesday night. "Somebody borrowed my name, and I regret it, as the 'ringer' was a loser," says Joe. "It wasn't me; I can produce an alibi."

NEXT Tuesday night's tussle at the Hip means a lot to Freddie Yelle and Frankie Mack, the boys who clash in the big number. The winner will be proclaimed the New England lightweight champion and when the game is renewed at the Arena, where pugdom biz has always been buxom, he—the winner—will doubtless draw the dates with White, Leonard and the other famed out-of-town lightweights.

MIAH MURRAY should add to the eclat of the evening, inasmuch as it is a championship go he is putting on, by placing the scales in the ring and have the boys make weight in fighting garb. That little gag always pleases.

WALTER BUTLER, the busy Revere lightweight, who sort of upset the dope by boxing rings around Johnny Lore at Woonsocket, Tuesday night, meets Dick Stosh at Lowell, tonight, and tackles Tommy McFarland at Waltham, next Monday night.

JOHNNY DONOVAN, the South Boston bantamweight also goes on at the Waltham show. His foe is to be Billy Edwards, Lawrence's pet among the Kewpies.

JIMMIE JOHNSTON comes to bat with a big boost for his heavyweight Andre Anderson. Space prevents us from doing much for Andre. However, it is highly interesting to note that Johnston has him billed as "the amazing battle [illegible] of [illegible] ambitious annihilators." Whew.

High Standing of Athletics at Brown U.

Providence, March 10.—Reports of the failure of prominent athletes in different eastern and western colleges to keep up with their scholastic work and the consequent dropping of their names from the college enrollment is in decided contrast to the conditions at Brown, as shown by Professor F. W. Marvel, athletic director, who says that of the fifty-one men who for one reason or other have left college this year not one was an athlete or major or even minor "B" man.

Since the beginning of the college year last September only [illegible] of the largest freshman class that ever entered Brown have dropped out, and of this number [illegible] were refused registration at the beginning of the second semester on account of studies, and none of these were athletes. Of the remaining number of men not now in college fourteen were sophomores, ten juniors, five seniors and [illegible] specials.

The reasons given for the discontinuance of college work are classed as follows: two deaths, six illness, four financial, four business, three discipline, four reason unknown, twenty-eight not doing well in studies and of this number only twenty were refused registration.

Of the total number only one has ever participated in varsity athletics, and then only as a substitute on the football eleven, one had been a member of the varsity swimming team, but had not represented the university in one and one-half years, another had been on the football squad last Fall and participated in several of the second eleven's games.

In referring to the unusual high scholarship of the [illegible] Brown athletes Professor Marvel says: "This is partly due to the efforts of the athletic office in keeping track of the men and urging them to keep up the high standard of their classroom work. It has been [illegible] during the year for [illegible] to refuse such permission to remain on the athletic field who should be in the class room."

GLOVER-EAGAN GO DOWN FOR MARCH 21

The Armory A. A. management has arranged to determine the lightweight and welterweight championships of New England. The AMERICAN yesterday made exclusive announcement of the closing of the Glover-Eagan encounter for the Hip, March 21.

FIRE!!!

When the "all out" signal was sounded on the three-alarm fire in the Shoe and Leather Building, 116 Bedford street, Thursday of last week, the Roackdale Woolen Company answered the insurance company's inquiry with the statement that they had no loss, but concealed among the rafters were the remnants of the fire. Slow burning though it might be, it broke out Friday, March 3rd, and if the firemen had been careful with their axes and water this ad would not be written, because the Roackdale Woolen Company would not have come to me with the following story:

"The room where we do business is completely demolished, and approximately 35 pieces of worsteds, which just came in, never touched by fire, smoke or water, I will turn over to you for spot cash, as we cannot leave them in this dirt and we don't wish to pay storage until we are ready again to do business. I have made a settlement with the fire insurance people which partly compensates me for whatever loss we may have had, and I want to congratulate you on the purchase of as fine a line of woolens as there is in the city of Boston today, at about 25% less than these goods were bought to be sold for."

In this range are a number of pieces of fine Blue Serge. These goods are absolutely all wool. I bought them quick and I want to make a quick turnover. I offer these goods, three-piece suit, fine Blue Serge, absolutely all wool, and color guaranteed. If these goods were sold to the dealers for whom they were bought by the Roackdale Woolen Co., the price would be at least $25.00. My price, suit to order $11.50

Fifteen styles of fine worsteds, about 12 ounces in weight, absolutely all wool, some with silk decorations, some plain grays, banjo stripes, fine pencil stripes. These goods were taken from the looms by the Roackdale Woolen Co., without a question in the manager's mind but that they would be sold for $25.00. My price, three-piece suit, to order $11.50

TAILORS, ATTENTION!

I want to call the attention of the tailors in Boston to the fact that I sell woolens by the yard in cuts. If, instead of going to your wholesale woolen man, you would come to my store to match samples, I can save you from 10% to 15%.

I offer today a fine Blue Serge, 10 ounces in weight, guaranteed color, $1.25 per yard.

No. 354 Wanskuk, the price at any wholesale woolen house in cuts today is $2.25. My price, in cuts, $1.77½ per yard.

Coronet Serges, sold by the wholesale woolen man for around $1.87½. My price, in cuts to tailors, $1.45 per yard.

No. 3192 Blue Serge, sold by the wholesale woolen houses for around $1.87½. My price, in cuts to tailors, $1.45 per yard.

I have thousands of styles of fine worsted suitings and cheviots, which I sell by the yard at comparatively low prices.

The small tailor today shouldn't thing of cutting, trimming, and making a suit of clothes, with present-day conditions, on canvases, linings, woolens, etc. See Mr. Macdonald, whom I consider the finest cutter in the business, and he will make you prices on cutting, trimming and making, whereby your troubles will be eliminated.

Grace Darling's Talks to Girls

No. 4—The Traits in a Girl That Men Like

By Grace Darling

The Charming Young American Moving Picture Star.

Copyright [illegible] News Service

A GIRL asked me how she can make herself popular with men.

I wish I knew how to answer that question, but it's the riddle of the Sphynx that women have been trying to guess ever since our first mother discovered that she was the Only Woman to our original papa.

Nobody has ever been able to explain why men flock around some one girl like bees around a honey pot while another girl just as good looking, as intelligent and as well dressed is left papering the wall at every party to which she goes; nor why one woman can marry six husbands and another woman never even gets one poor little proposal of marriage.

From what I can learn, the secret of popularity is a conjure that varies with different generations of men. According to old-fashioned novels—which may be supposed to reflect their day as our novels reflect ours—the things that made a girl a belle were fragility of body and weakness of mind.

CLINGING VINES

All the most admired heroines fainted at every slight shock; many of them were invalids that spent their time reclining on couches, and none of them ever expressed an opinion, but clung to the nearest man and let him do her thinking for her. And they were all raving, tearing beauties, and were very cold and disdainful to the suitors who came a-wooing.

That kind of a girl wouldn't be popular now. No man would go near a girl who was always swooning for fear he might get a sickly wife if he married her, and, anyway, he likes a girl who is an outdoor girl, and can walk and play golf, and row a boat, and be a good chum.

Men also like girls who have got good sense, and their own point of view, and with whom they can carry on an intelligent conversation.

And I don't think men are so particularly keen about beauty. They like a girl to be nice looking, and well groomed, and well dressed, and to present a good appearance, but they don't insist on her being a living picture.

NOT BEAUTIES.

Look about you and you will see that there are very few married women who would ever have gotten the blue ribbon prize in a beauty show.

My advice to any girl who wants to make herself popular with men would be to learn how to do the things that men like to do—how to dance, how to play a good game of bridge, how to play golf or tennis. Men are not built of the stuff of which martyrs are made, and no man is going to ask a girl to dance who [illegible] all over his feet, or to play bridge with him if she trumps his ace. Nor is he going to refrain from amusing himself in the way he likes best in order to sit around a house and entertain a girl who doesn't do things.

In these days a girl who wants beaux has got "to put herself in an attitude to receive the blessing," as old-fashioned Methodists used to say.

Then a girl should cultivate tact in dealing with men. When a man takes a girl to the movies she shouldn't discourse about her passion for grand opera. When he treats her to beer and sandwiches she needn't spend the time talking about truffles and champagne, nor, when he takes her on the street car, need she tell how some other man always brings around a limousine.

THE RIGHT WAY

Yet I have heard girls commit these very blunders, and then wonder why the man that they had made feel small and stingy didn't come back to see them again. The only way that a girl can repay a man for his attentions is by showing him that she appreciates them, and you'll always find that the popular girls are the girls that make a man feel as if he were giving them the time of their lives, no matter how simple is the pleasure.

Above all, I think that the way for a girl to make herself popular with men is to be good-natured and companionable, ready to enter wholeheartedly into any kind of innocent fun. That kind of a girl makes a man feel that she's just a chum, and that she isn't trying to marry him, and he likes to be with her for that reason.

But nobody can give a girl any cut-and-dried recipe for popularity. The ingredients and the flavoring have to be changed to suit each individual man.

A delightful photographic study of Grace Darling.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

KNOW YOUR OWN MIND

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man, twenty-one years of age, and am acquainted with a young lady of eighteen, whom I met seven years ago as a neighbor down in Jersey. I left this city four years ago and have been receiving letters of friendship and love from this girl, and answer her accordingly. She has sent me several photographs of herself, although I have not sent her any of mine.

Kindly advise me, Miss Fairfax, whether or not this young lady is the proper one for me. J. L. K.

FROM your own account you have let this young woman believe you care for her, and you certainly owe her some consideration. But if after having known her since she was a child of eleven and after having exchanged affectionate correspondence for so long a time, you don't know yet whether she is the right girl for you, the young lady is probably fortunate if she is not, and it is to be hoped that her own feelings are not too deeply engaged.

MAKE ONE EFFORT

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I was going with a young man for two months. I had a slight argument with him. We separated. After two weeks he apologized. Since then we had another argument. He was in the wrong, but he has never apologized.

I [illegible] heard from him [illegible] happened about two months ago. Can you advise me [illegible] I love him dearly and [illegible] for other gentlemen I [illegible] before and since I met him. I long for him day and night. I try to forget him, but it is impossible. I do not care for any pleasures since we separated.

I think he knows he is in the wrong, but he is too proud to apologize. Should I write to him?

A BROKEN-HEARTED GIRL.

THE question is which is more important to you, your pride or [illegible]. If the young man is no longer interested in you, but if [illegible] you will probably [illegible] in certainty. Write and attempt a reconciliation. If he fails to meet you in a friendly spirit, accept the inevitable and put him out of your mind.

Grace Webb Spends the Week-End at Dorothy Courtney's Home and Invites Max Courtney to Call

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER V

IN [illegible] Grace Webb [illegible] accepted Dorothy Courtney's [illegible] for a week-end party.

The visit evidently improved the girl's physical [illegible] for she returned to [illegible] more color in her [illegible] look in her [illegible].

"You had a [illegible] time, didn't you?" her mother asked.

"Yes," Grace said, "a very pleasant time—at least there were some pleasant things about it. But I shall not go again to a place like that."

"Why not?"

"Because [illegible] I did not put myself in the position of a poor young person in that crowd. Dorothy was very kind, but I could not help knowing that she was somewhat amazed at the meagreness of my wardrobe. She saw that my clothes were the very same ones I wore last year."

"What if they were?" Myra exclaimed. "Does one's success in society depend upon [illegible] she wears?"

"It certainly depends upon the amount of money she has," Grace declared. "And why shouldn't it, mother? Stop and think of what the members of that set do. They go to fashionable hotels in the Summer—just as we have done every year until now. Or they have their beautiful country home where they dress elegantly, play tennis, golf and so forth, ride horseback, or drive motors.

THE HANDICAP

"Now when a poor girl goes with that crowd she feels that she is accepting everything with the knowledge that she can return nothing. I felt that all the time. Heretofore it has been different, for even though we had no country place we went to swell hotels in Summer and in the Winter we entertained prettily in our own house. I also had costumes fit for every occasion. You know, mother, I dressed as well as any of the girls with whom I associated. Now I can't. So I do not feel that I am any longer one of them."

"Then you mean," the mother ventured, "that you are going to drop your friends?"

"I won't need to," the girl replied with a little laugh that had a sharp ring to it, "they will probably drop me."

"Even if some women look at things in that way, men don't," Myra asserted.

"Perhaps not," Grace rejoined, "that remains to be seen. Oh, by the way," in a tone which she tried to make sound indifferent, "Max Courtney was at Dorothy's. He and I had some nice walks, talks and rides together. He is coming to call on us some afternoon, he says."

"That will be nice," the mother said. "I thought him very charming the few times I met him."

CHARMING AND POOR

"He is charming," Grace agreed, "and not rich. If he had a lot of money I might not ask him to come here, for reasons which I have just mentioned. Even so, I told him of [illegible] He [illegible] but I fear he [illegible] just how hard up we are [illegible] only for a little while [illegible] predicted [illegible] [illegible] kind [illegible].

She [illegible] one warm afternoon in September when [illegible] the steps of the house [illegible] their apartment was, she [illegible] face to face with Max Courtney, who [illegible] approached from the other direction. She held out her hand [illegible] recognized him.

"Why, Mr. Courtney," she exclaimed. "I am glad to see you! Come right in, won't you?"

She fancied he looked somewhat surprised as he saw that the house contained no elevator. Then she determined not to allow herself to entertain such a foolish notion. She would not apologize for their changed fortunes.

Yet when she reached the third floor, on which their apartment was located, she realized, with a sinking heart, that she had not brought her latch-key with her this afternoon. She must ring, and Grace would come to open the door. While the girl was always neat, she would be [illegible] dressed. Still, there was no help for it now. So she rang.

It was as she expected. Grace came to the door. She was simply dressed in a cheap linen skirt and a white shirtwaist, and as she [illegible] been making salad for dinner she still wore the apron she had [illegible] in going into the kitchen. She flushed [illegible] laughed in embarrassment [illegible] in greeting the caller.

A THOROUGHBRED

"Please pardon my looks," she said involuntarily, "but I have just been mixing mayonnaise. Do come into the living room, mother," as Myra started towards her own room. "Lay off your hat and then come in here and have a glass of iced tea with Mr. Courtney and me."

Grace was a thoroughbred, the mother thought proudly as she removed her hat in front of her mirror, hastily smoothed her hair, and after washing her hands and face, hurried into the kitchen to prepare some iced tea. What difference did it make, she argued, if Grace did have on a morning costume? What did the man expect, anyway?

She knew only too well what he expected. He was in the habit of seeing his cousin Dorothy exquisitely dressed at all times of the day. Even had he appeared unexpectedly at her home, on a hot afternoon, and even had she been in negligee, that negligee would have been a dainty creation of lace and fluffy material more becoming than a less [illegible] costume would have been. He was used to fashionable folk. He had admired Grace and her former surroundings. But now—

Well, the tea must be taken into the living room. Fortunately a potful had been left from luncheon. Myra poured it into a glass pitcher, but as she began cracking the ice Grace appeared at the kitchen door.

"Let me do that," the girl said peremptorily. "You shall not work for my guest. Go into the living room, mother, and talk to Mr. Courtney. I will bring the tray as soon as I have it ready."

Strange Barter and Sale

THERE is a wide field in China for dishonest traveling merchants, and remarkable consequences come to light occasionally. Some traders, taking advantage of the simplicity of the Mongolians, make an attractive display of goods such as the natives crave to possess and tempt them to purchase what catches their fancy. Woe to one who is beguiled to walk into the snare, for the glib tongue of the traveling merchant [illegible] induce him to [illegible] of that particular article to which his attention is directed at the price demanded.

If he has something to offer in exchange, fleecing stops there, but in case he has nothing to give in return a great calamity will befall him. The vender will assure him that he is quite welcome to carry away the article on credit. He will come back again to collect after a certain lapse of time. If the native hands over one or several head of cattle, as the case may be, and an extra sheep or a horse, equivalent in value to thirty or forty per cent. of the price of the goods advanced, as interest, everything will be satisfactory.

However, the merchant, on returning, seldom collects the price but is satisfied with carrying away the promised interest, leaving the purchaser in debt, so that he can continue to fleece him. Thus it is not rare to see some Mongolian working for the payment of usurious interest on a debt contracted by their fathers or even grandfathers as the result of them having fallen victims to one of these tricky Chinese pedlers.

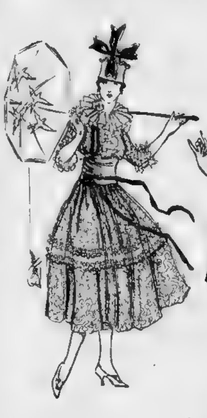
Picture-Like Are Gowns of Spring

Many Color Combinations in Evidence, with Blue and Yellow in Favor



A charm of old chintz patterns is revealed in this girlish frock of cotton voile.

BLUE and yellow is a combination much in favor just now. One finds it in millinery, dresses, suits and the numerous accessories that tend to heighten the smart ensemble.

The sketch lady exploits an American-designed costume of navy blue cloth with yellow peplum collar and corselet. The tone of yellow is familiarly known as chartreuse, the greenish tinge having been found becoming alike to blondes and brunettes—therefore its high place in the Spring chromatics.

It is said that Paquin, among other French couturiers, is never without this particular color season in and season out. Certainly it combines effectively with the dull blues, browns, blacks and reds used for street garb.

An interesting feature of the picture suit is the envelope cuff fastened with a single button.

The hat is a glorified edition of the chef's cap. It is of tulle and taffeta garnished with Mephisto quills.

Reports from Palm Beach and other Winter resorts of the fashionables place insistence on the [illegible] lines of the newest bathing garb.

Last year loose Russian blouse effects and baby-like smocks were the thing. Now the bathing suit that is built to resemble an evening frock is the approved model. The suit in the picture is made of midnight blue taffeta. To heighten the coquettish effect an azelea in natural color is posed to the left of the throat.

To be quite in fashion one must appear to have a small waist, and the effect is gained, in this instance, by a broad girdle of cherry colored ribbon. There is a slash at one side of this girdle through which are passed two narrow streamers of black velvet, whose source is traced to the collar.

Quite startling is the Greek cross bow which ornaments the small hat of [illegible] straw. The roses defining the high crown are of the color of the dress girdle.

INDUSTRIALS HELD SWAY IN MARKET

By BOERSIANER.

Over two-thirds of the 714,200 shares turnover consisted of the industrials. Beside the relative neglect of the rails, bonds sales diminished; traits not conducive of certainty that the first animated session in a fortnight was of a high grade order.

But a certificate of good character was furnished by the fact that the best of the industrials were in the van of the movement, Steel Common leading.

Steel was at once the bellwether and the original animator, than which a better leader could not have been selected. "Selected" is used provisionally, not advisedly.

Early in the day the Street was told a 250,000 share pool has been formed in Steel, managed by a well-known capitalist," and, further, "with Steel leading, the market will be run into an old fashioned bull movement within two weeks."

* * *

Two hundred and fifty thousand shares could not make a formidable pool—for Steel Common—though conductive by "well-known capitalist" for the mutual benefit of several or many capitalists. There is an operator in Chicago whose personal commitments in Steel at times are as large as 250,000 shares—or more—and several such operators could be mentioned on behalf of New York. The amount is not large—for Steel—and could not be made pivotal, however narrow the general market.

It were safer to assume that Steel in particular and the industrials in general were roused to a wider activity by an acuter appreciation of what these properties are doing for their stockholders.

The prod was provided by the announcement that $25,000,000 would be spent at Gary for new construction, and from $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 on other subsidiaries. These expenditures are a plain notification that the management believes the flourishing state of the iron and steel trade is of a permanent, not of a transient nature.

* * *

The corporation can well afford to expand. The end of 1915 found it in a stronger position than ever before, both physically and financially. The amount of cash at the banks was approximately $110,000,000 against $62,000,000 at the end of 1914.

The capacity of the mills was already increased last year and in view of the great amount of business coming forward a further extension is natural, indeed, the new construction work is on a scale unequalled.

At the end of December the amount of unfilled orders on hand reached 7,806,000 tons against only 3,837,000 tons at the close of 1914, and was higher than at any time during the past three years. It is to be borne in mind that the question of prices is an important factor in the prosperity of the corporation, as when prices are high the proportionate cost of operation is considerably below that ruling when prices are low.

A MUSIC MASTER SINGING PRAISES

Prof. James E. Campbell, of Chelsea, Is Now a Well Man.

In order that any man or woman may derive a full measure of pleasure and success from life, it is necessary that he or she should be possessed of health in mind and body. It is certain that the greatest thing in all this world is health; without it a man can scarcely do anything worth doing; he can accomplish little that is really worth accomplishing. Attention to health, then, should take the place of every other object. That which is necessary to secure it should receive consideration in preference to everything else. For instance, the preparation, Plant Juice, the new herbal system tonic, is gaining a large following in Boston, at the drug department of the Houghton & Dutton Co. store, where daily grateful people are testifying to its merits and recommending it to their friends.

PROF. JAMES E. CAMPBELL

Recently the signed testimonial was received from Professor James E. Campbell, who is one of the best known and popular instructors of music in Massachusetts, has resided in this State for the past 30 years, and in Chelsea, Boston, for three years. He stated:

"I had suffered from dyspepsia, indigestion and a generally deranged stomach for the past four years. It was pronounced intestinal indigestion and gastritis. I became so bad that I was confined to my room for weeks at a time, and could not eat solid food of any description. At one time I had to refrain from eating for five days, except oranges and other fruit. I suffered untold agony and distress, and finally became afflicted with rheumatism in my shoulders, arms and legs. I had spent hundreds of dollars, but never received any permanent benefit until I commenced to take Plant Juice. I can truthfully say that your medicine has cured me and I no longer suffer from aches or pains. I can eat hearty, sleep fine and I am recommending Plant Juice to my many friends."

The Plant Juice man is at the drug dept. of Houghton & Dutton Co.'s store, where he daily meets the local public and introduces and explains the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

STOCKS CLIMB; TRADERS MORE CONFIDENT

By W. H. ROSS.
Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong at noon, both in Boston and New York. In the latter market the trend had been upward all the morning. A number of issues made large gains in Boston, including Mohawk, Ahmeek and Butte & Superior. They all receded from their highest during the second hour. Business in New York was of fair volume, but rather narrow and decidedly professional. Butte & Superior sold at 99, ex-dividend, which is equivalent to 109¾. American Zinc sold at a record high price. The U. S. Steel Corporation reported that at the end of February its unfilled tonnage had increased 649,199 tons to 8,568,966 tons, a better showing than was generally expected.

Noon gains in New York included American Can ¼, American Smelting ⅝, U. S. Steel ½, Bethlehem 11, Car & Foundry 1, American Loco. ⅝, Crucible ⅞, Lackawanna Steel 1, Mexican Petroleum ¼, Westinghouse ⅜, Butte & Superior 3⅝, Baltimore & Ohio ⅝, Canadian Pacific ⅞, N. Y. Central ⅛, Reading ½ and Union Pacific ⅛.

Among declines were Anaconda ¼, Chino, ex-dividend, ¼, Distillers ⅞, Maxwell ¼, Studebaker ⅛, Atchison ⅛, Chesapeake & Ohio ½, and Southern Pacific ⅛. New Haven was unchanged.

Gains in Boston included Ahmeek 2½, Allouez 1½, Copper Range 1, Granby 1, Lake 1, Osceola 1½, Quincy 2½, Mohawk 4, Old Dominion 1¾, Welverine 2, U. S. Smelting 2¼, American Zinc ¾ and Butte & Superior 3⅝.

Among declines were New Haven ½ and United Fruit ½.

MARKET GREW STRONGER.

Stocks were irregular in New York at the opening, with prices showing little change in either direction. Reports concerning the situation on the Mexican border did not appear to influence the price movement to any extent, but did have the effect of accentuating caution. Mexican Petroleum opened at two-point decline, recovered the loss and eased off a fraction within a few minutes. Greene-Cananea was slow in appearing on the tape and then showed a decline of ⅜. American Smelting opened ¼ off, recovered the loss and advanced ⅝ quickly. The border situation, in fact, had little influence upon shares of most corporations having large property interests south of the Rio Grande. In trading circles belief grows that the controversy between the American and German governments has passed the acute stage. Talk of more munition contracts being awarded is helping a number of war industrials in speculative esteem. Expectation that the British government will soon seek a large loan in this country is stronger than ever. Sentiment in general is said to have greatly improved this week. Bulls are more confident and bears are nervous. Many persons whose judgment is valued expect a change for the better, and some of them think it will be sudden. But so many uncertainties cloud the outlook that following any forecast may prove to be rash.

The market was fairly strong at the end of half an hour, there having been an improvement, if there had been any change of importance. The majority of active issues were showing gains.

U. S. SMELTING A FEATURE.

The Boston market had a quiet start. Trading was narrow and largely confined to zincs and U. S. Smelting. The latter stock was strong and active. Coppers were quiet as a class. Tamarack was the strongest.

The advance of Mohawk to a new high record price was an event of the first hour, it selling at 103½, up 7½. Issues which sold ex-dividend today were Chino, $1.25, Ray Consolidated 50 cents, Utah Copper $2.50, Butte & Superior $10.75, Swift & Co. $2, Nevada Consolidated 50 cents, American Pneumatic Service first preferred $1.75, second preferred 75 cents, Mackay common $1.25, preferred $1.

QUOTATIONS FOR METALS.

Most offerings of copper metal now are by small producers. But some of the largest are said to be willing to make concessions upon small orders. During the first nine days of March, exports totalled 4,333 tons. Prices are steady.

In the London metal market spot copper and futures were up £5, with electrolytic unchanged. Spot tin was up £1 10s., futures £1 5s., and Straits £1. Spot lead and futures were up 15s. Spot spelter was off £4 and futures £2.

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

Last month was a bad period for the United States and Canada in regards to fires, losses amounting to $24,770,770, compared with $13,081,250 for February, 1915, $21,744,200 for that 1914 month, and $22,084,600 for 1913.

February anthracite shipments amounted to 5,696,306 long tons in spite of a shortage of cars and a dearth of ships. Compared with the same 1915 months shipments increased 1,346,391 tons.

It is said regarding Boston & Maine: "The road has been doing somewhat more business over the past eight months than in 1912, yet it then had 45,000 freight cars on its line, while the 40,000-car figure has not been touched during this fiscal year, and there are now only about 38,600 cars on the line."

"Good Health!"

This is just a little milk toast to remind you that this is Baby Week all over the United States. Mothers of babies, sisters of babies—even fathers of babies—are urged to follow the suggestions of the Federal Children's Bureau. One baby in every eight dies before reaching the age of twelve months, and the bureau blames this largely on Mrs. Don't Care. Here's how the bureau describes two rooms:

MRS. DO CARE.	MRS. DON'T CARE.
Clean wall paper.	Dirty wall paper.
Windows screened.	No screens.
No flies.	Flies.
Milk covered.	Milk uncovered.
Clean stove.	Dusty stove.
Dust cloths.	Feather Duster.

Give Baby a chance. Remember, he—or she—may be President some day!

U.S. Has Greatest Grain Supply in History on Hand

By JOSEPH F. PRITCHARD.

Chicago, March 10.—Never in the history of North America were the wheat stocks, known as the exportable surplus, as enormous as now. The wheat reserves of 241,000,000 bushels in the United States are 34,000,000 bushels above the former record.

In the farm reserves and the visible there are now about 104,000,000 bushels more wheat than at this time last year. The Canadian estimate shows 50,000,000 bushels in farmers' hands, and in store and at country points of that country 44,700,000 bushels.

This, on top of the amounts shown by the government official figures make a record supply, which is to be at least partially disposed of before another crop is available.

There was further talk of foreign powers owning many millions bushels of wheat in the United States and Canada, and this came from a source considered conservative. It was reiterated that Great Britain and its allied governments controlled the breadstuffs situation of the world.

That the purchases were made with one end in view, and that was to prevent some of the other governments from securing control, and it was also argued that the price of wheat was anything but high. Not only were the purchases of wheat large in the United States and Canada, but they were enormous in Australia and Argentina.

The seaboard reported only 200,000 bushels of wheat as sold for shipment abroad, and the transactions at Chicago amounted to only 25,000 bushels. The business would have been on a much larger scale with ample facilities for handling the grain on the ocean, as well as for getting it to the ocean.

Corn advanced one-half to five-eighths cents. Oats were a small fraction better.

RAILROADS WILL FIGHT WAGE MOVEMENT

Chicago, March 10.—The vote of 40,000 engineers, firemen and trainmen of American railroads overwhelmingly favored authorizing union heads to enter into negotiations with railroads for an eight-hour day, it was announced here.

The following statement was issued:

> While the returns from the membership of these organizations are not complete, it is evident that the vote is overwhelmingly in favor of presenting to the railway companies of the United States the requests for the eight-hour day and time-and-one-half for overtime.
>
> Consequently, the movement with that object in view will be carried forward in its regular course.
>
> The present vote has no significance, except as an indication of the desire of the men that this matter should be presented to a conclusion and all reports that it has significance as a strike vote are erroneous and misleading.
>
> In the immediate future, the requests will be presented to the railway managements and the necessary steps taken to make the same effective.

The statement was signed by W. S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; A. B. Garretson, president of the Order of Railway Conductors; W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

According to Mr. Stone, returns not yet in cannot possibly affect the result. The demands in a few days will be presented to the railroads and they will have thirty days in which to make reply.

The roads have made it plain that they intend to fight the proposed conditions. Upon their refusal to accede to the requests, which is taken as a foregone conclusion, committees representing both sides will be appointed to negotiate a settlement, if possible.

The railroads, it is said, will insist upon arbitration under the Erdman act, if the private negotiations fail.

WESTERNER TAKES NEW HAVEN BERTH

E. J. Pearson, formerly of the Texas & Pacific Railroad, has been appointed vice-president of the New Haven Railroad, according to an announcement sent out from the local offices. He will have headquarters here and will serve as general assistant to President Howard Elliott, taking charge of all matters relating to maintenance, construction and operation.

He was appointed to relieve President Elliott of a large amount of work.

AT LAST OUR FLAG HAS BEEN SALUTED

Copyright, 1916, by International News Service.

It has been saluted a long time now with mockery, insults, jeers and contempt.

Finally these Mexican anarchists and assassins have mustered up the courage to salute it with bullets.

We sent warships and soldiers to Mexico to demand a salute to our flag.

That salute was refused, and our ships and our soldiers came home, humbled and humiliated.

There was no salute for our flag on Mexican soil.

But now it has been saluted at last ON AMERICAN SOIL.

And American men and American women lie dead, murdered ON THEIR OWN AMERICAN SOIL, by the bullets shot in hate and scorn at THEM and THEIR FLAG and THEIR COUNTRY.

Once again, citizens, look on your dead and see the continued results of watchful waiting.

See what occurs while your government quibbles and splits hairs over the trivial question of a fool's right to risk his fool's life on hostile ships.

See how American men and American women are shot down ON THEIR OWN SOIL while a Department of State wastes the nights and days in futile and senseless disputation over some other Americans' rights to protection ON THE DECKS OF FOREIGN ARMED VESSELS.

Citizens, have we not watched and waited long enough?

Must we forever watch our own kindred shot down and wait while they die in their agonies?

Citizens, why do we have a government, if not to use the authority and power of the nation to defend the lives of its people?

Why do we maintain a navy and an army if our soldiers and our sailors are not permitted to avenge the outrages and the murders committed day after day by brutal assassins?

Why do we have a President at all, if not to speak the anger and to direct the vengeance of the nation upon the defiant insulters of the American flag and the persistent murderers of American men and women?

Citizens, there is but one way in which to avenge your dead, to wipe the spittle of insult from your flag, to clean your country of this shame.

That is to march the armies of the United States into Mexico and put that unhappy country in order under the rifles and bayonets of our soldiers; to hunt down and summarily execute these villainous murderers and to give to Mexico a reign of order and of peace that will be permanent.

And, citizens, since your President does not act and may be expected not to act, you yourselves must take this matter into your own hands and command and compel, if necessary, the Congress of the United States to order the forcible intervention in Mexico which your Executive seems to have neither the courage nor the decision to perform.

It is up to you, citizens.

What will you do?

Are our dead always to lie unavenged?

Is our flag forever to droop covered with shame?

Are we to keep on watchfully waiting, amidst the scorn and contempt of the whole world?

Say, citizens, are we to swallow humiliation and make a familiar of contempt and be bedfellows of infamy?

Or shall we take these anarchists and assassins by the throat and choke the evil lives out of their cruel and cowardly carcasses and put our flag back in the sunlight of honor?

Speak to your Representatives, citizens!

Tell them that there must be no more watchful waiting while American men and women are shot down by jeering assassins.

Tell them to send your soldiers into Mexico to deal the vengeance of the Republic upon these murderers and to put an end once for all to the frightful anarchy which has made that wretched country a hell of outrage, murder and unspeakable villainy during so many horrible and humiliating years.
